KINSEY, GEORGE LESTER, Capt. AUS—killed November 30, 1944 in Germany.

KORB, MILTON, Capt. MC AUS—died December 29, 1945 while on terminal leave.

MCALLENAN, JOHN, S/Sgt. USAAC—killed February 10, 1944 in action over Brunswick, Germany.

1932

BAILEY, FREDERIC ELLWOOD, Lt. (jg) USNR—killed January 25, 1944 in action near Italy.

HOLLEB, EUGENE MILTON, Maj. MC AUS—killed October 14, 1944 in an accident at Port Moresby, New Guinea.

SEIXAS, EVERETT MASON, JR., T/5 AUS—killed December 27, 1944 in Luxembourg.

STANIELS, HENRY EASTHAM, Pvt. AUS—killed July 26, 1944 in Normandy.

DESLAURIERS, NORMAN ANDRÉ, 2nd Lt. AUS—killed August 4, 1944 in France.

ROUGVIE, ANDREW WHITE, JR., Capt. USAAC—drowned July 17, 1945 near Kunming, China.

WATSON, NORMAN HALE, Lt. USNR—killed August 19,

Let Us Remember Them

Remarks of President Henry M. Wriston at the War Memorial and Recognition Service to which the Annual Meeting of the Associated Alumni of Brown University was devoted on the day of Brown's 178th Commencement.—

▶▶ I SPEAK TODAY with one purpose only—to voice a tribute to those alumni of Brown University who laid down their lives in the war. Most of them were young; some of them very young; some had not even completed the work for their baccalaureate degree.

That fact poses the most critical question I know with regard to the validity of a liberal education.

Whenever I think on the subject, one acid test comes to my mind: suppose that on the very morrow of his graduation the student were to lose his life; would his education have been wasted? The answer is as simple and as plain as any answer could be: if education is preparation, it has been lost; but if education is real and significant as an experience, it has not been lost. Of all educational experience only that of a liberal education is dependent upon no exterior circumstances for its validity.

Liberal education is growth; it is life itself. In the death of these men at untimely ages, the world is indeed impoverished, but, because they had the experience of life in this ancient University, they had been enriched and the quality of their service and sacrifice was enlarged and ennobled.

As we remember these alumni with affection and respect, let us think of them in connection with the life of our nation, and determine so to influence the policies of our beloved country that it shall profit by their sacrifice.

Let us remember them also in connection with this University, and resolve that in all its procedures and all its plans and all its activities Brown will supply to their younger brothers and to all their successors that inspiration and instruction which makes even a brief life more intense, more real, and more meaningful.

1944 while serving as Operations Officer of a mobile air unit on Eniwetok atoll.

HOGG, GEORGE CALLENDER, 1st Officer TC AUS—killed April 9, 1945 in France.

KERNAN, EDWARD FINTAN, Capt. USAAC—killed January 5, 1943 in a plane crash at Fort Meyers, Fla.

LEWIS, WILLIAM ARNOLD, Lt. USNR—missing and presumed dead since the sinking of the aircraft carrier Liscombe Bay, November 24, 1943.

SPENCER, DONALD PERRY, Lt. USNR—died December 31, 1944 of a malarial fever in the Pacific.

VAIL, WILLIAM HENRY, 2nd, 1st Lt. MC AUS—killed September 19, 1942 in a plane crash near Blairtown, N. J.

1935

BENJAMIN, ALFRED HENRY, JR., S/Sgt. AUS—killed March 8, 1943 in an accident near Rabat, North Africa, where he was serving as a Special Agent assigned to the 5th Army.

FAHNESTOCK, ADAM BRUCE, Capt. AUS—died October 18, 1942 of accidental shrapnel in New Guinea.

GODFRAY, LEONARD CLEMENT, Maj. USA—killed June 6, 1944 at Colleville Beach, Normandy.

ROSENSTEIN, LOUIS, JR., Lt. AUS—killed July 17, 1943 in a rough sea north of New Guinea as a result of an accident while being transferred from one naval vessel to another on his way to a new mission.

1936

ANGELO, HARRY, 1st. Lt. AUS—died of wounds August 1, 1944 in France.

DOWNING, FRANKLIN CHASE, JR., Pilot Officer RCAF—killed June 19, 1943 in occupied France.

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

JULY-AUGUST, 1946

► ► 'From Ev'ry State the Sons of Brown'

► ► THE EMOTIONAL FACT of Commencement, withheld from many through the war years and compounded thereby, made a memorable weekend for Brown men in June, 1946. Commencements are sentimental affairs, of course, because Seniors are graduated—255 of them this year—and because alumni experience the heartening that comes from old scenes revisited and old ties renewed. But College Hill had been a distant place of late—the service flag with its 6438 stars partly explained that—and acceleration, tension, and an overshadowing national purpose had sobered the ancient ceremonies and deferred reunions. Journeys to the Brown campus had been largely in retrospect.

But now the victory had been won, and Brown men were back. They savored friendships, they sought the news they had missed, they looked about them with an unashamed affection, they celebrated their return, they thought of those who would not return, and they addressed the enterprises of future greatness for their University. It was the 178th Commencement, attended by tradition; yet in some respects it was as though there had never been a Commencement before.

► THE ALUMNI THROGGED to the Marvel Gymnasium for a homecoming dinner of record proportions, splendidly managed. They learned that the Housing campaign had a rousing start. They joined the Seniors in a Class Night in the open air that was more intimately a Brown festivity than had been the case for many years. They had reunions, the five-year classes and the classes that were five-year classes last June and the June before—more reunions than had ever been held. They circled the campus in unprecedented numbers and descended the Hill deliberately in processional compliment to the graduates. They devoted their annual alumni meeting to a war recognition and memorial service, with its climax in the honor paid 166 Brown casualties. Whose heart was not moved?

In the Meeting House on Commencement Day the University conferred 10 honorary degrees, most of them upon alumni, with military awards predominating; 19 graduate degrees were given, and 255 at the baccalaureate level. All classes since 1941 were represented among the graduates, for 45 of the Seniors had returned from military service and others had acquired sufficient credits in the armed forces for their diplomas. Eighty-eight graduates were Pembroke students.

The graduating class was that of 1947 (that would have been the year of their graduation without the accelerating), and 123 members were awarded certificates "in recognition of academic achievement and patriotic devotion" because their college days had been interrupted and they had withdrawn for military service before graduation. The military note was further present in the commissioning of 104 members of the Brown Naval Unit, with Capt. Francis D. McCorkle, USN, administering the oath. Nine of this record-breaking number took their commissions in the Marine Corps.

Master of Arts degrees, ad eundem, were awarded to F. Morris Cochran, vice-president and business manager of Brown, and seven full professors: Harry E. Farnsworth, Leland W. Goodrich, John W. Marchant, Carl W. Miller, Detlev W. Schumann, George J. Stigler, and W. Freeman Twaddell. They thus become honorary alumni of Brown.

► BACK IN 1769 the Commencement orations consumed most of the day. Two Seniors sufficed in 1946 to represent this tradition, one of them a Pembroke graduate, the first girl ever to speak at a Brown graduation. G. Frances Martin urged a revival of wide student travel as a factor in the world's aspirations toward peace, so that world citizenship would follow. Henry C. Aitken offered a criticism of what he called the myth of national sovereignty. Today, he said, the right of each nation to absolute freedom is no longer the exclusive concern of its own inhabitants.

Preacher at Sunday's Baccalaureate Service this June was the Rt. Rev. Granville Gaylord Bennett, D.D., Suffragan Bishop of Rhode Island. His topic: "That They May Have Life." The President's Reception, a pleasant, well-attended affair on the Middle Campus, would have been the pleasanter if Mrs. Wriston and the Bigelows could have been in the receiving line with the President, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Cochran.

The Commencement season began with the Senior dinner of Thursday, June 13, continuing the series which the University has tendered the outgoing since the war began. These informal affairs, combining the serious with horseplay, have been a great success and bid fair to become a permanent fixture. This year the speakers included: Dr. Arnold, Dean Robert W. Kenny, Capt. McCorkle, James W. Gurl, W. B. McCormick and W. C. Worthington for the alumni; Senior Marshal Robert Austin, Chaplain Arthur L. Washburn, and Nelson B. Jones, Director of Student Activities. Austin presented the large number of athletic awards. President Wriston was attending the Senior dinner at Pembroke, although he usually is the principal at the Brown affair and gives what many consider his best talk of the year. Mr. Jones took over from Dr. Bigelow the latter's customary duties as toastmaster.

▶ THE ALUMNI CAN THANK a topnotch committee for the fine arrangements for their homecoming Victory Dinner, which attracted nearly 1000 to Marvel Gym on Friday night. Chairman H. Stanton Smith and Treasurer John W. Moore earned all the great compliments they received for a laborious, painstaking, but also imaginative job. Their committee, too, was a working committee: R. H. Goff, Fred A. Otis, Myles Standish, Paul F. Gleeson, Charles P. Sisson, Thomas F. Gilbane, and H. Stanford McLeod. The class reunion chairmen and the Association of Class Secretaries scored more than an "assist."

At the request of the classes, Col. G. Edward Buxton '02, chairman, used the occasion to launch the Housing and Development Campaign, of which separate reporting appears elsewhere, and President Wriston gave the philosophical foundation for campaigning. Furber I. Marshall '19 was toastmaster, while Dr. Moses L. Crossley '09, alumni president, made Brown Bear awards on behalf of the association. A high spot came in the "Report from Tokyo" given by Maj. Gen. William C. Chase '16, who was also chief marshal of the Commencement procession.

The officer who led U. S. troops into Tokyo declared the object, complete submission of the Japs was amazing but professed the belief that democracy among them had a fighting chance, contingent upon the educational program and a prolonged occupation. "One generation of Japanese in our own country, exposed to democratic ideas, made them patriotic Americans; this gives us reason to hope we can democratize them at home, now that they are so thoroughly out of the war business. It will take time and patience and your continued support of General MacArthur's policy. He really has accomplished marvels in our occupation of the Japanese homeland, where his directives are complied with 100%. They appear to be making an earnest effort to do exactly what they are told, and, strange as it may seem, they appear to like it. Every soldier is entitled to one hero," and General MacArthur is mine."

General Chase said that Joseph B. Kecnan '10 is conducting the Tokyo war crimes trials in the face of "a stiff legal fight." The soldier was received with an ovation which was in part a tribute to his military record, in part an audience's applause for a good speech.

Details of handling the tremendous crowd were not without their complications, one of which was the late reservation of places by so many alumni. But they were well served, enjoyed to the full the reunion aspect of the dinner (classes were together at table), and dispersed to their class reunion headquarters rewarded for coming.

▶ THE CLASS NIGHT DANCE on the campus was another Friday night attraction in which the younger alumni especially took part. It was a gay, colorful affair in a new setting—on the lower campus in the semi-quadrangle formed by Engineering, Metcalf Lab, and the other flankers of what used to be Lincoln Field. The crowd was large (3000?) and more than ever seemed to be Brunonian, with many uniforms in evidence. The smaller quad between Metcalf and the Arnold Lab provided a more secluded area for tables and sociability. The midnight sing was an exhilarating half-hour with Seniors and their dates massed before Marcus Aurelius to do the job up brown. The Senior committee, to be congratulated for its courage in seeking to revive the tradition, had arrangements well thought out and smoothly handled under the direction of Nelson Jones and William R. Potter. Only the weather was unco-operative, for showers drove the dancers indoors into Sayles and the Union on two occasions, the last time for keeps. The dance was a scheduled element in many a class reunion schedule.

The afternoon exercises "Under the Elms" also had a new site, in view of the landscaping still under way on the middle campus. The speakers' platform backed up against the Van Wickle Gates, and a full-fledged program of ode, oration, and presidential advice made it a real revival—the first Class Day since the early months of the war. The Seniors wanted it, knowing that it dates back to 1863 and is something to be preserved. Afterwards the Deans received the families of the graduates on the steps of Manning Hall.

▶ ON A SCALE never before attempted, the University opened its dormitories to the alumni this year at Commencement time, and about 200 took grateful advantage of the accommodations in Hope, Slater, and elsewhere. A few classes centered their whole reunion on the campus, notably the 50-year men of 1896 and 1910, while others took the opportunity to house their members for the night of the alumni dinner and left next morning for the customary shore-resort week-ends. The experiment proved a genuine success, and similar provision is certain to be sought another year. Kingsley Meyer, "chief room clerk," says we learned a lot, and a number of improvements in the system can be incorporated. Alumni thanks go to Ward Davenport, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, whose co-operation was splendid. His force labored through the night to make the space available, since students were in their rooms until the evening before the alumni moved in.

▶ IT WAS APPROPRIATE that the first Commencement after the war should come to an end with solemnity, for there were 166 men to remember, who had lost their lives in the nation's service. Their names appear in the Book of Memory in the Little Chapel in Sayles Hall, and the roll was read as class representatives received certificates as record of the loss. The annual meeting of the Associated Alumni devoted itself to this impressive memorial ceremony after Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, one of the Navy's great heroes of the war, urged the continuing strength of military alertness, particularly at sea. A general luncheon of the alumni preceded the Sayles Hall meeting, to which the old bell on U. H. rang its traditional summons.

Missed by all was the chairman of the University's committee on Commencement, Vice-President Bruce M. Bigelow, who was recovering from an operation. (He continues to mend in fine fashion.) Dr. Arnold undertook unfamiliar duties at short notice with valor and effectiveness but insists that credit be shared with J. Cunliffe Bullock '02, chief of staff for the procession, and with administrative assistant John F. Buchman, Jr., '44 and the Alumni Office. Special exhibits of war souvenirs and items from the Edward North Robinson athletic collection were specially prepared.

Omitted from this issue is the full story of the record-breaking reunions, which we wish to report in detail, with lists of men attending, class elections, and other news. A special section of the magazine will be devoted to this in September. There just wasn't room for everything at once.

OSRD and UN Repository

► BROWN UNIVERSITY LIBRARY has been selected as one of the leading libraries in the country to receive copies of reports of war research programs involving more than 35,000 titles. The distribution, from the Office of Scientific Research and Development, includes everything from compact manuals to illustrated volumes of encyclopedic scope. Subject matter ranges from the uses of DDT to radar, surgical instruments, underwater warfare, and bombing math.

Librarian Henry B. Van Hoesen also revealed in June that the John Hay is one of few in the country which will receive material relating to the United Nations, for formation of a special department. It will include records, books, and mimeographed material which will come from interested organizations throughout the world and "will make the John Hay one of the recognized centers on international relations and international law."

The new department will be similar to one on war posters and propaganda accumulated during the war, with the help of alumni the world over. Between 70,000 and 100,000 pieces are being assimilated—not the most complete in the world, but one of the most representative.

Byron Watson Steps Aside

► BYRON S. WATSON '97 has resigned as chairman of the board of the Rhode Island Insurance Company, of which he has been a director since 1913. He consented in June to remain a director and to act as senior advisor to the board of directors, but he pointed out that the war was over and he was five years beyond the normal retirement age.

He was elected vice-president of the company and chairman of the board in 1932 and became president two years later. He also assumed the duties of president and director of the Merchant's Insurance Company of Providence and president and director of Cheapside Land Company, continuing until the insurance firms were merged in 1940. He resigned as president the following year. Throughout this time he also served as Board Chairman of the William Penn Fire and Louisville Fire Insurance Companies. He is a director of the Union Trust Company, the American Screw Company, the Nicholson File Company, the Narragansett Electric Company, and Certain-teed Products Corp. He is president and treasurer of the Belcher and Loomis Realty Co.

► THEY WILL BE REMEMBERED—166 Brunonians who lost their lives in the war. This was the pledge of those who came back to the campus for their first Commencement in the new-won peace. The ceremony in Sayles Hall, traditional scene of the annual Alumni Meeting, gave voice to that pledge as a corporate act of remembrance. Classmates and, in many instances, families were witnesses and listened with full hearts.

It was an appropriate place for remembrance, and it was appropriate that each name should be called aloud before the great throng so that we thought of the dead as individuals as well as a special company. Their own memories had been alive in the hall once; their names seemed to strengthen a tie with us and bring a continuing presence.

All was simplicity and honesty in the ceremony. The President's tribute, reflective and challenging, was a masterpiece of moving simplicity. And the hall was hushed as Fred B. Perkins '19, as Secretary of the Corporation, read the names on the roll, starting with the class of 1907 and continuing through 1947, through the C Unit of the Army Pre-metereologists, the Graduate School, and Pembroke. Twenty-nine classes were represented, the younger classes of course suffering the greater losses in numbers. An officer or other member of each class came forward to receive from Dr. Samuel T. Arnold, as Acting Vice-President, a certificate for the class archives. Another certificate, together with a copy of the President's words, has since gone to each "nearest of kin."

"Could one of those who died be here today to talk to us, I wonder what he would say. Perhaps his thoughts would run like this," Col. McLeod said:

► THE PRESIDING OFFICER of the meeting was Col. H. Stanford McLeod '16.

"Twenty-five years ago some of you and some of us gathered on the lower campus to dedicate the Arch erected in commemoration of Brown men who gave their lives in World War I that we might enjoy the blessings of peace. All present on that occasion entertained the hope that thereafter nations and peoples would show a decent respect and regard for the rights and well-being of their neighbors. Today you gather on a similar occasion to honor us. Twenty-five years from today, or thereabouts, will some of you and perhaps others yet unborn gather for a similar purpose? If so, such meetings as these give lip service only and are a mockery in the light of the sacrifices which we have made.

"But you can do more if you will. We know that scientists and technologists, because of constant application to duty, because of research and hard work, can destroy the world but because they deal in things and not in personalities they cannot save it. Only through education in the liberal arts and the humanities can the world be made to live. The study of philosophy, of logic, of history, of economics and political science, of languages, of music, makes for greater wisdom. Greater wisdom makes for greater understanding, and greater understanding makes for greater tolerance. In a world crying for leadership, the atomic bomb is not the answer. Only through thoughtfulness and tolerance and understanding and self denial and self discipline can a bruised and battered world be nursed back to health. And if you would avoid repetition of this sort of thing a few years hence, and if you would really honor us, go forth as exponents of a liberal education to promote a better understanding among men."

Fine Start for Housing Campaign ◀ ◀

►► BROWN'S GREATEST PROJECT is under way—the $4,000,000 Housing and Development Campaign—with the largest and most enthusiastic army of workers ever organized on behalf of the University, and with the blessing of Brown's thousands of alumni. Heartened by an "initial gifts" report of $1,250,000 in hand on the eve of Commencement, the campaign leaders pressed on toward the more general phase of solicitation in which it was anticipated that there would be a worker for every four alumni the country over. The call was for "generosity beyond convenience."

Col. G. Edward Buxton '02, national chairman, reported that many committees and teams were actively at work in July, making person-to-person contacts in the big enterprise; others, depending on the progress of building the elaborately far-flung organization, planned their major appeal for the fall months. On all sides was a swift, united response, "very heartening but what you would expect from the loyalty of Brown men." The achievement was surprising, nevertheless, in view of the fact that summer heat is not conducive to initiative in most campaigns. Nor are July and August regarded as ideal months in which interviewers may find their fellow alumni, with so many enjoying long-deferred vacation periods in the first post-war summer. But the program for Brown was proving an exception to general campaign rules in its strides forward.

► OF THE FIRST TOTAL announced, $750,000 represented gifts from three individuals. Chancellor Henry D. Sharpe '94 contributed more than $200,000 in securities. Also in securities was the gift from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., '97, representing more than $250,000 in current market value, and indicating that a further contribution in the same proportion would follow when the campaign figure had reached $2,000,000. The third of the largest contributions came from an anonymous donor, $300,000, while another anonymous gift was for $100,000.

Most of these gifts were announced at a meeting of a group of Rhode Island workers, to whom Col. Buxton declared that "the most glaring deficiency in an otherwise strong university is housing—this campaign will remedy that situation." In normal times, he said, the superior student will go to the college that presents the best design for living.

President Wriston told the workers in a letter he was enthusiastic over the way the campaign was shaping up. "The organization meetings," he said, "have demonstrated in various parts of the country that the consolidation of our constituency is an important by-product of the campaign. The many evidences of whole-hearted support of the basic program of the University show that we can attain our goal and, I hope, far surpass it." Other speakers were Dr. Samuel T. Arnold '13, J. D. E. Jones '93, Thomas F. Gilbane '33, Homer N. Sweet '07, Edward H. Weeks '93, Claude R. Branch '07, and Charles E. Hughes, Jr., '09, the last a leading member of the Corporation policy committee on the future size of Brown.

► COL. BUXTON released on July 1 a preliminary roster showing hundreds of workers already recruited. It appears elsewhere in this issue, with other acceptances arriving daily which will be printed later. National vice chairmen were introduced at the Alumni Dinner.

A few of the dozen regions into which the country had been divided were even entering upon the final phase of their drive. Down Texas way, vice-chairman Wendell B. Barnes '32 had issued a special message to alumni and friends in the Southwestern Region, supplementing the literature from College Hill: "It is the finest project that could have been undertaken," he said. "It is certain to have the effect of giving the University a splendid plant in which to accomplish its mission of broadening its influence through the increased inspiration to the faculty, students, and officers, and of renewing the ties of the University. We can all be proud to have a part in it. All of us are busy and have little time to spare. Yet, some of the most heavily engaged alumni in this region are the ones who are giving their time to make the campaign a success. . . . All can help by being magnanimous. All of us received from the University more than we paid or gave. There is nothing as likely to give us continuing satisfaction through the years as the help we gave to build these fine new buildings at the University."

There is no need here to report on the four pamphlets and the brochure which every alumnus has received: "The Structure of Brown University," "Educational Housing," "The University College," "The Size of Brown University," and finally that splendid document "A Home for the Liberal Ideal." Seldom have any messages of explanation and aspiration been so thoroughly read and so heartily accepted.

► THE CASE for the program was eloquent and convincing. The presentation of the definite intent brought home concretely in visible detail the generalities which had been previously offered. Architectural rendering anticipated the actual buildings, and charts located them, just as the exposition justified them:

1. The Pembroke Dormitory, on which construction has already begun, a building to accommodate 246 students, completing an attractive courtyard with Miller and Metcalf Halls flanking the new unit.

2. The two Quadrangles for Men, nearly 700 undergraduates in residence in units for both fraternity members and non-fraternity men. One would be in the block bounded by Brown, George, Thayer, and Benevolent Sts., on land immediately available. This would comprise 10 Freshman units and 10 fraternity units about enclosed courts. The southerly quadrangle would accommodate seven fraternities and a comparable Freshman population in the block bounded by Charles Field, Brown, Power, and Thayer Sts. Land for this is also available whenever construction can start. Units will be distinct but connected, with fraternity halls alternating with non-fraternity quarters. They are so arranged that each fraternity has its chapter room, lounging space, and bedrooms within a single unit "—with separate entrances and as independent of other quadrangle residents as if these fraternity homes were in separate structures."

3. The Refectory will be located in the block between the two quadrangles, accessible to both and to the older dorms. It will unite "efficiency with economy in serving good food" in urbane surroundings to all resident undergraduate men as well as others who may wish to take advantage of it. Each fraternity will have a private dining room in the refectory.

4. The Classroom Building on Waterman St., between Arnold Lab and Faunce House, will replace old houses which are "ill-adapted to instruction in a science concerned with modern life." Other classrooms will be incorporated in a projected Departmental Headquarters assigned to the "last remaining site on the campus"—between Maxcy Hall and the Engineering Building. ("Some of the University's most distinguished departments now occupy frame structures; modernization will provide part of the required space; two new classroom buildings are also necessary.")

The comprehensive plans have been drawn by Perry, Shaw & Hepburn, who restored University Hall and rebuilt Colonial Williamsburg.

► WHY DO WE CAMPAIGN? Why choose a time like this to seek new resources for the University? President Wriston answered the questions at the Alumni Dinner at Commencement and called the moment actually "the most appropriate in modern history to undergird both the ideals and resources of the liberal college." With the winning of the war, faith in freedom had been recovered, so that the endowed liberal college has a special and an urgent function, he said.

CHAIRMAN G. EDWARD BUXTON '02. His Brown campaigners had reached nearly a third of the $4,000,000 goal in the first phase of the drive.

"Brown, like all institutions, is influenced by historic circumstances. It mirrors past experience and reflects the world about us. . . . But Brown was built by men who believed that the future was in their own hands. They had faith that they could shape the course of history by the exercise of intelligence and moral energy. The issue is whether we still hold, or can now recover, that faith."

"Brown is endowed; the object of that endowment was not to make it rich, or to make it comfortable, or even to give it beauty of setting. The essential purpose was to give us freedom, an uninhibited opportunity to resist and remake our moral, intellectual, and cultural environment—and to do it at the most sensitive point, among youth just entering upon their duties as citizens." But during recent years the accent was upon academic security rather than upon academic freedom, with the result that resistance to tyranny was feeble in the European universities.

"In the search for living truth and its expression in life," Dr. Wriston said, "freedom is essential. To defy the trend of the times, to resist environment, academic freedom is essential. ("The materialism of our day and the economic determinism which expresses it have led to an intense concentration upon the social service state with its compulsory happiness—tyranny in syrup," he had said earlier.) The times cry aloud for new zeal, new consecration to the task of liberal education.

► "RHODE ISLAND is traditionally the home of the individual man. Brown University was founded as a 'liberal and catholic institution.' It has not prospered as a politician by swinging about like a weather-cock with every gust of doctrine; this institution has pursued a higher statesmanship, shielded by a magnificent charter from one type of pressure, undergirded with endowments by generous benefactors. Its inner life has been dominated by scholars who spoke their minds with courage and penetration. It has kept the liberal faith.

"That is why Brown University should evoke the profoundest loyalty of all its alumni and the warmest appreciation and support of every one in the community who believes in freedom. The first freedom, the foundation of all, is not freedom of enterprise but freedom of the mind and spirit. It consists in a temper which will sacrifice worldly goods to preserve the integrity of an ideal and that is the perfect description of a great teacher.

"In moments of great crisis everyone accepts that doctrine, for not otherwise can we justify the loss of life in war. If we have let American youth die for better markets, or for increased exports, or for any other material advantage, we have done a wrong so monstrous that we can never expiate it. Only if we believe that the fabric of our society is dependent upon values so precious that they are worth more than life itself can we justify the sacrifice of 166 Brown alumni in the war. If we let men die for those ideals, how much more should we strive to strengthen and support the type of institution by which along those ideals live and grow and flower?

"If we were launching a campaign for brick and mortar alone, if this campaign was merely for beauty and for comfort, we should have no right to ask 2,000 Brown men to work to raise the money. We would have no right to ask all the alumni and all the friends of the University to contribute. Only because the real purpose is to put Brown in a more effective position to go forward in its best tradition and keep alight the flame of freedom can such an appeal be made.

"Success in that appeal will not come without effort, without time, thought, energy, persistence, and deep conviction. Nor will it come without generosity which runs beyond convenience."

► IN HIS ADDRESS to the Alumni Dinner gathering, President Wriston quoted portions of the letter which accompanied Mr. Rockefeller's gift as an example of "looking at a new situation through new eyes." He had had another illustration during the Commencement season, he said, when an anonymous donor "whose generosity of spirit, as of purse, approaches the fabulous." This individual came in and handed him an envelope. There had been a previous gift of $100,000. The envelope contained securities worth $200,000, a gift in all of $300,000.

"The spirit of these donors is typical of what we must have," the President commented. "Neither person can profit directly or indirectly. Both have exhibited abiding faith in the significance of Brown and have remembered that 'Faith without works is dead.' Not everyone can give in the same scale in dollars, but all can give in the same spirit. If each, up to his own capacity, translates faith into action, we shall have the four million—and more."

Accolade for 10 ◀

▶ ▶ EIGHT ALUMNI and a member of the University Faculty were among the ten distinguished Americans who received honorary degrees at Brown's Commencement. Half of the number were of the military, as befitted the first exercises since the victory. Presidential citations followed the Brown tradition for eloquence, compactness, and integrity.

Three of the recipients were top leaders in the war against the Axis: Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, wartime commander of the famous 5th Fleet now President of the Naval War College, who later in the day addressed the alumni in Sayles Hall; Maj. Gen. Royal B. Lord '21, assistant to General Eisenhower in directing the huge logistics operations for the African campaign and later in Europe; Maj. Gen. William C. Chase '16, commander of the First Cavalry in the relief of Manila and other campaigns. Others were two younger officers, veterans of both wars: Col. H. Stanford McLeod '16, artillery officer who commanded the 17th Field Artillery Group after five campaigns in Africa and Europe; and Col. Dwight T. Colley '18, holder of two Distinguished Service Crosses, who took part in the liberation of Austria and Czechoslovakia after severe wounds in the 26th Division's Saar Basin drive.

Two classmates in 1906 received honorary D.D.'s for distinguished achievement in the Baptist ministry: Rev. W. Douglas Swaffield of Alton, N. H., formerly of Taunton, Mass., an active leader in the denomination and trustee of several educational institutions; Rev. Charles R. Chapell, general secretary of the United Baptist Convention of New Hampshire, trustee of three New England institutions, and figure in the national council of the church.

Prof. Charles A. Kraus, director of Brown's work on the atomic bomb and several as yet undisclosed other contracts of a war character, past president of the American Chemical Society, head of Brown's chemical research program, and widely recognized leader in chemical progress, also received the University's accolade. Two received the degree of Doctor of Letters: President Gordon K. Chalmers '25, editor and college president; and George W. Potter, chief editorial writer for the Providence Journal and Evening Bulletin, Pulitzer Prize winner and member of this magazine's Board of Editors.

The citations follow in the order of their conferring:

HUGH STANFORD McLEOD, MASTER OF ARTS: Graduated from college into action in a great world war, you returned to become one of a small group who, while pursuing successful peacetime careers, maintained a lively interest in an effective armed force to save the nation if the glowing promise of the "war to end war" should fail. When war again threatened, you re-entered active service and participated in the field operations of five campaigns in North Africa, Italy, France, and Germany. For your steadfastness of purpose, your dependability in action, your exemplification of the best qualities of the citizen-soldier, we seek to do you honor.

DWIGHT TOWNSEND COLLEY, MASTER OF ARTS: You sacrificed your baccalaureate degree from Brown to enter World War I, winning for yourself the Distinguished Service Cross, the French Croix de Guerre, and the Italian War Cross. Returning to the army in this war, you rose to command the same regiment in which you served as captain in the last war, again winning the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism and receiving the Russian Medal of Bravery. For outstanding loyalty to the call of duty whenever and wherever it beckons, we delight to honor you.

WALTER DOUGLAS SWAFFIELD, DOCTOR OF DIVINITY: In the 40 years since you were graduated from Brown you have successively served four churches in three New England States, bringing to each the faithful care of a diligent pastor, the inspired instruction of an enlightened preacher, the warmth and geniality of a true friend, the humor and imagination of an intensely human character. It is with singular pleasure, therefore, that we greet you here today.

CHARLES RAYMOND CHAPEL, DOCTOR OF DIVINITY: Inheritor of the Brown tradition of a liberal and scholarly outlook, endowed with an irenic spirit and a gift for administration, you have made a notable contribution toward the maintenance and advancement of Christian churches in difficult areas. In so doing you have gained the respect and affection of all who came within your sphere of influence. Gladly we call you back to this Meeting House on your anniversary.

GEORGE WILLIAM POTTER, DOCTOR OF LETTERS: In the quarter century since you last appeared on this platform, your life has been devoted to journalism, most of the time as an editorial writer; through the years you have refined the clarity of style which won you the Hicks Prize when an undergraduate; you have enlarged the horizon of your interest, reflected upon the meanings of events, and interpreted the passing scene in terms of American ideals. Your independence of mind, sincerity of conviction, and power of lucid expression have already been recognized by a Pulitzer Prize; now your alma mater would add her meed of praise.

GORDON KEITH CHALMERS, DOCTOR OF LETTERS: Imbued with a taste for scholarship as a Brown undergraduate, matured in liberal learning at Oxford, professionally trained in literature at Harvard, you have served as a teacher in a famous New England college, then as president of Rockford, and for the last nine years as president of Kenyon. To zeal for learning you have brought rare integrity; to the problems of administration, resourcefulness; to students, intellectual leadership; and to faculty appointments, insight and discrimination, revealing in all these relationships personal attributes that have added distinction to success.

CHARLES AUGUST KRAUS, DOCTOR OF SCIENCE: Happy the institution which numbers among its faculty an original and creative mind: his contribution runs beyond knowledge of his own field, skill in teaching, and fruitful research, significant as is each of those things. He enlivens every discussion, he inspires every group, he enriches all with whom he comes in contact. So you have done at Brown. Your manifold services to the university have been of vast importance: your influence upon the chemical profession of first rank; your contribution to industry of immense value; your war effort fundamental. As you lay down official responsibilities, may you enter upon a long and joyous period of untrammeled investigation and creative activity.

ROYAL BERTRAND LORD, DOCTOR OF LAWS: Member of the Class of 1921 at Brown, graduate of the United States Military Academy, your career as an army engineer has displayed extraordinary ingenuity, rare inventiveness, great executive powers, and military talents of the highest order. In recognition your country awarded you the Legion of Merit and the Distinguished Service Medal, France conferred the Legion of Honor and Croix de Guerre with palms, and Britain made you commander of the Bath. Now the college which you left to become a professional soldier summons you home to enroll you as an honorary alumnus.

WILLIAM CURTIS CHASE, DOCTOR OF LAWS: With the dash and dramatic vigor characteristic of the finest cavalry tactics, you carried out the brilliant maneuver which brought rescue and safety for the prisoners at Santo Tomas. This was only one incident in a long and intrepid military career, but it epitomized those qualities of mind and heart which brought you military renown as well as the respect and affection of your fellow servicemen and alumni. To your many official decorations, we would add the mark of approval of your own university.

RAYMOND AMES SPRUANCE, DOCTOR OF LAWS: You began your training as a naval officer soon after the United States had attained full stature as a world power. Peace seemed secure and the incentive to self-development in the armed services meager. Because of innate ability, but far more because of sterling traits of character, you won your way to heavy responsibility, striking achievement, and distinguished recognition during the war. Now at the summit of your matured powers, you shape the destiny of the institution of most importance to the efficiency of the navy and to the progress of naval science. Thus at each step of a notable career you have manifested the best traditions of a great service.

Veterans' Plight ◀

▶▶ WANTED: Living quarters for 700 Brown students, most of them veterans.

The appeal didn't read that way, but that was the theme of it. And the University turned, anxiously but hopefully, to the community at hand, asking alumni and other friends of Brown to share a corner of their homes with these students for whom no accommodation otherwise appeared available. A concentrated program of publicity about the situation was prepared, with co-operation of the most generous sort from press and radio. Newspapers devoted helpful space to stories and pictures, while the four radio stations in Providence and Pawtucket offered from five to twelve spot announcements each daily.

"Space is available in Brown dormitories and fraternities for 1073 students," Acting Vice-President Samuel T. Arnold pointed out. "The present total of non-commuting students requesting living quarters is 1770. This leaves 697 students who must be housed in private homes within reasonable walking distance of the campus or accessible to public transportation facilities reaching the campus." Dr. Arnold explained that the university is now accommodating 50 per cent more students in dormitories, and six additional buildings have been converted to dormitory use, but the need still remained.

▶ "IT WAS ORIGINALLY planned to acquire 180 temporary dwelling units for married veterans and 300 for single veterans," he said. "Because of obstacles, only 100 dwelling units for married students have been allotted to Brown and none for single units." The prospect is that these emergency units will be ready for occupancy late in October, so that 100 married veterans must be accommodated in private homes for that six-week period. Of the 597 requiring housing for the full school year, 345 are former Brown students, most of them veterans readmitted to college; the majority of 127 incoming Freshmen are also veterans; 125 married veterans in excess of the number who can be accommodated by emergency housing want to bring their wives and children to Providence.

A Veterans' Housing Office has been set up in Faunce House, where James W. Hunter is co-ordinating the University's efforts to obtain living quarters in private homes. The undergraduate club of married couples, "Mr. and Mrs. Club," is co-operating and provides volunteer office help. An alumnus in or near Providence should notify Mr. Hunter if he has available a room or rooms suitable for student occupancy. Mr. Hunter is eager to list not only guest rooms, but attics, game rooms, summer cottages, rooms over garages, any usable habitable space. Compensation is a matter of individual arrangement, but the student must have a bed, access to bathroom facilities, heat and light, and space for study.

A letter will go out in August over the signatures of Dr. Arnold and Dr. Moses L. Crossley '09, President of the Associated Alumni, appealing to the Rhode Island alumni to offer lodging in this emergency. Members of the Faculty and administrative staff will receive a similar appeal.

▶ AT ONE TIME Brown proposed to put up 11 of the two-story, Navy-type barracks along the Cole Ave. side of Aldrich Field and four more on the stadium parking lot, which would have provided 110 apartment units for married veterans, through the Federal Public Housing Authority (The original hope had been for more units, but FPHA was unable to grant them at the time.) Under government regulations, the buildings must be removed and the site restored to its original condition when the emergency has past, a venture costly to Brown but an imperative service to the vets.

Despite an appeal to the neighborhood to accept the erection of the buildings on behalf of the "veterans whose service in the armed forces has entitled them to special consideration," the necessary petition to the Providence Zoning Board was opposed on grounds that "property values would be affected" and that the site was 'unhealthy.' The question was also raised why Brown did not use the land below the Deke House on College Hill, the playing fields on Thayer St., or the campus itself. The regional office of FPHA in Boston replied that the original sites were the only ones owned by the University which would be considered satisfactory. Public interest in the matter was heightened by the activity of veterans as individuals and as organizations, but the Board, denying the petitions for exemption from the zoning rules, gave the University leave to withdraw its request.

A solution was found when the City of Providence authorized Mayor Roberts to lease 131,555 square feet of its Sessions St. playground to Brown, an area directly across Elmgrove Ave. from the stadium. In return, a similar four-year lease was given to the City so that 161,378 square feet of the stadium parking lot may be used by the public for playground purposes.

The Larger Brown ◀

▶▶ THE GIFT of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., '97 to the Housing and Development Campaign was accompanied by a letter commenting in an enlightening fashion on the size of Brown. It is the more pertinent in that Mr. Rockefeller said he has been for many years "consistently opposed to the expansion of the University."

"The conditions with which the educational world is today confronted," said Mr. Rockefeller, "are, however, so radically different from those that have pertained during the past two or three decades that they have led to a change in my position. The outstanding considerations that have brought about that change are the following:

"1. In view of the new world in which we are living, this country needs increasingly, as I see it, trained men and women of vision, breadth and courage. To that end the percentage of students for whom the colleges and universities are providing opportunities for a broad, cultural education with emphasis on intellectual, moral, and spiritual values, must be materially increased, wherever wisely possible, rather than diminished as is now the disturbing trend. Brown's present plans are constructively directed to that objective.

"2. One of the most difficult problems which changing conditions have brought to the college and universities of the country is their relations to fraternities. I have observed with interest and approval the approach to this problem which Brown is making and have high hopes of the results.

"For these reasons I am glad to participate in the task to which Brown is now addressing itself."

Mr. Rockefeller said it gave him added satisfaction to take part in Brown's important program since he could thus bear testimony to his appreciation of the contribution being made by President Wriston "to the higher life of this country as an outstanding leader in the educational, political and economic thinking of the nation—a leader whose power has its source in his deep moral and spiritual convictions."

Brown Plate Orders Being Filled

▶ "BUSINESS IS GOOD," Alumni Treasurer F. E. Schoeneweiss '20 reports. The last issue of this magazine announced that Brown University Wedgwood plates are again in stock, and orders were prompt and numerous. The backlog of unfilled orders has been attended to, and new deliveries of this attractive Queensware are prompt. The plates cost $2 each (make checks payable to "Treasurer, Associated Alumni, Brown University" and send them to the Alumni Office). There are six in the standard set, each with a different campus view as a center. The small profit provides the only income for the Treasury of the Associated Alumni.

Memorial Journey to Scotland

▶ DR. ALEXANDER MEIKLEJOHN '93 has been invited to give the James Seth Memorial Address at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, in September. Older alumni will doubtless remember Dr. Seth, who gave courses at Brown during the 'nineties as professor of Philosophy and Moral Theology.

Prof. Meiklejohn spoke on UNESCO, of which he is a delegate, at the Animated Magazine of Rollins College in February. He is at present a part time lecturer at St. John's College, Annapolis, Md.

W. & J.'s New President

▶ JAMES H. CASE, JR., Secretary of Brown University from 1940 to 1943, is the designated President of Washington and Jefferson College, with inauguration ceremonies scheduled for Oct. 25, 1946. He has been on leave of absence from Brown during a tour of duty as a Naval officer in the V-12 and ROTC program. His many friends among Brown alumni wish him the best as they congratulate him and W. & J.

Mr. Case will celebrate his 40th birthday the day after his installation. He came to Brown after a post in the U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission, drafting regulations and making special studies for the SEC and later the Temporary National Economic Committee. He was commissioned Lt. (jg) USNR in March, 1943, and served as executive officer of the V-12 unit at Howard College, Birmingham, Ala., and commanding officer of the unit at Wabash College in Indiana. Promoted to Lt. before going to Wabash, he was released to inactive duty December, 1945, after assignment to the ROTC at Ohio State as Assistant Professor of Naval Science and academic officer. He continued graduate studies at Ohio State until May, when the Trustees of Washington and Jefferson called him to the presidency.

His brother is Dr. Everett N. Case, new President of Colgate University; his father James Herbert Case, former Deputy Governor and Board Chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Wallace Lane Is Dead

▶ WALLACE R. LANE '99, Brown University Trustee since 1928 and a distinguished patent lawyer in Chicago, died in that city May 24, 1946, after a lengthy illness, a year after his wife, who had been a member of Pembroke's first graduating class. Brown gave him an honorary degree in 1927.

Mr. Lane started his practice in Des Moines after graduating from the Yale Law School in 1900. A specialist in corporation and patent law, he was also to teach at Highland Park College, Drake University Law School, and the University of Nebraska Law School. His writings on legal subjects appeared in many publications, and his professional leadership was shown in offices held: president of the American Patent Law Association, vice-president of the Chicago Patent Law Association, chairman of the Patent Copyright and Trademark Law Section of the American Bar Association.

He was a past-president and loyal member of the Chicago Brown Club, a generous supporter of all Brown causes, and a friend of a vast number of alumni. He had been a trustee of his preparatory school, Williston Academy since 1930, and of Hopkins Academy. His son, John W. Lane '31 of Chicago, and two daughters, Mrs. George T. Moore '24 and Josephine Gardner Lane, survive him. He was an honorary member of Phi Beta Kappa, and his social fraternity was Beta Theta Pi.

In 1925 President Coolidge had named him delegate to the international Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property at the Hague. ◀

Rhode Island Honored Lord, Too

▶ CAPITOL HILL as well as College Hill honored Maj. Gen. Royal B. Lord '21 when he returned to Rhode Island for his honorary degree at Brown June 17. Governor John O. Pastore took advantage of this visit to confer the Rhode Island Cross on the former Pawtucket resident whose "outstanding leadership . . . insured the maximum assistance of supply agencies to the combat forces and thereby materially hastened the defeat of Germany." Two classmates of the General joined his family for the ceremony in the Governor's office at the State House: Alfred Mochau, secretary, and Arthur S. Caputi, formerly of Detroit but now returned to Providence.

"General Lord distinguished himself as Chief of Staff and Deputy Commanding General, Communications Zone and Deputy Chief of Staff, European Theatre of Operations, from October, 1942, to April, 1945," said the Rhode Island general order awarding the decoration. "He directed the functions of Communication Zone bases and sectors and was primarily responsible for planning, co-ordinating, and executive the logistical activities supporting the Normandy landings. The thoroughness and flexibility of his plans were evident when the supply line remained unbroken despite storm-damaged beach ports and unexpectedly swift combat gains. While the fighting went on west of the Rhine, he was prepared to supply the drive into Germany; and before the victory was won in Europe, he made arrangements for huge assembly and staging areas to accommodate thousands of troops." ◀

Howard Coffin for Congress

▶ REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE for Congress from Detroit's 13th Congressional District will be Howard A. Coffin '01, former Brown Alumni Trustee. His supporters were successful in the June primary. As the Detroit Free Press said, "He is the type of man whom we too often talk of as being the ideal public servant but whom we all too seldom elect to office." ◀

A strong factor in his favor was his record in public life: President, Detroit YMCA; President, Detroit Community Fund; Director, United War Chest; President, National Council YMCA; Director, USO; Member Appeal Board No. 1 Selective Service System; Trustee of Brown University, Grace Hospital, Detroit College of Law. He was the only candidate of either party given a "preferred" recommendation by the Civic Searchlight, official publication of the Detroit Citizens League. ◀

New Classroom Facilities

▶ RAPIDLY RISING on Brook St., immediately to the north of Marston Hall, is Brown's newest classroom building, a $200,000 structure authorized in June by the Civilian Production Administration. The three-story building is designed to handle 900 students per class hour and was approved because of its promise of meeting the requirements of greatly increased veteran enrollment. Its frontage is to be 179 feet, while it extends 189 feet to the rear. ◀

Gen. Rollins to Livermore

▶ NEW MANAGER of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Livermore, Cal., is Brig. Gen. Francis W. Rollins '16, USA, who on May 23 reverted to inactive status after a conspicuously fine service record in the war. He holds the French Legion of Honor, Croix de Guerre with Palm, and Croix de Guerre with Gold Star, and American Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster.

As Division Artillery Commander of the new 66th Infantry Division, he was crossing the English Channel to meet the Battle of the Bulge when a German torpedo struck the giant transport Leopoldville Christmas evening and cost the outfit 800 officers and men — the largest loss of life suffered by the Allies in the Atlantic. On New Year's Day Gen. Rollins assumed command of the Allied forces in the Lorient sector — two regiments of French infantry, two of American infantry, and 12 American artillery battalions. They succeeded in their mission, to bottle the Nazis in the Channel ports, and action was continuous day and night until May 7 when the German Lieutenant General in command surrendered.

Gen. Rollins was with the 66th in the Army of Occupation in Germany and assumed command Oct. 20, 1945, prior to its return to the Zone of the Interior. After watching the troops embark on the transport at Marseille, he was directed by Gen. Eisenhower to fly to the States to meet them and witness deactivation of the division. He had entered on active duty as Colonel in command of the 103rd Field Artillery, R. I. National Guard, with the 43rd Infantry Division Feb. 24, 1941. He was assigned as Division Artillery Executive a year later and was promoted to Brigadier General Sept. 7, 1942. Before assignment to the 66th, he was assistant Commanding General at the Field Artillery Replacement Training Center, Camp Roberts, Cal. ◀

Michigan's New Suffragan Bishop

▶ DR. RICHARD S. M. EMRICH '32 was consecrated Suffragan Bishop of Michigan June 11, with the Most Rev. Henry S. Tucker, Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church acting as consecrator at an impressive service in St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit. Bishop Creighton of Michigan and Bishop McElwain were co-consecrators, while Bishop Angus Dun of Washington and Bishop Dobson of Ohio presented Dr. Emrich. Bishop Sherrill of Massachusetts delivered the consecration sermon.

Dr. Emrich was born in Turkey, where his father was a missionary. After graduation from Brown, he prepared for the ministry at Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, and the Union Theological Seminary in New York; he received his doctorate from the University of Marburg, Germany in 1938. He has been a member of the faculty of the school at Cambridge for several years and is the author of "Earth Might Be Fair," the Presiding Bishop's book for Lent in 1945. He was rector of St. Anne's Church, Lincoln, and St. Gabriel's Church, Marion, while teaching in Cambridge. His family's new address is Hill St., Ann Arbor, Mich. ◀

Receives Guggenheim Award

▶ E. HOWARD HUNT, JR., '40 of Albany, N. Y., received one of 12 post-service fellowships when the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation announced its final series of such awards July 1. The stipends in this category have been made to men and women who "served the nation directly in the war effort in the Armed Forces and in civilian war agencies." Hunt, who had successive commissions in both Navy and Army in addition to work as a correspondent, is writing a third novel based on his war experiences. ◀

Given to Brown ◀

▶ IN ADDITION to the heartening sums contributed for the Housing and Development Campaign, the Alumni Fund, and the Alumnae Fund, Brown University acknowledged at Commencement time other gifts slightly in excess of $150,000. Because of the memorial nature of the meeting on June 15, the usual catalogue of benefactions was not a part of the Alumni gathering in Sayles Hall this year, announcement being made through the press and the columns of this magazine.

More than $40,000 of the gifts came as grants in aid from various foundations and companies in support of research projects and fellowships. Listed were: $4650 from the American Cancer Society for biological research, particularly in connection with Brown's famous rabbits, $20,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation and $10,000 from the Carnegie Corporation toward a special program of teaching and research in applied mathematics. For fellowships in chemistry, $1000 from Tennessee Eastman Corporation, for which Brown was a subcontractor in connection with the atomic bomb; $1000 from the Ethyl Corporation; $1000 from the Calco Chemical Division of American Cyanamid Co.; $1900 from Arthur D. Little, Inc.; and $2000 from the Dow Chemical Company. The F. R. Haffenreffer Family Foundation gave $1800 for a fellowship in the new division of Medical Sciences.

Among bequests the largest was from the estate of J. Eugene Osgood—$30,974 to establish the J. E. and A. E. Osgood Trust Fund for Scholarships. The Herman Horn Fund was established with $250 from the estate of Herman Horn, and the Robert Harvey Day Scholarship Fund with $2000 from the estate of Ellen A. D. Bloomer. (Mr. Day, a Rhode Island educator who died in 1900, would have celebrated the 50th anniversary of his graduation from Brown this year. From the estate of Ella F. Griffin $2900 was received as an addition to the Stephen W. Griffin Fund; from the estate of the Aldrich brothers, most liberal of benefactors, $1500 as an addition to the Charles F. and Henry L. Aldrich Fund; from the estate of Berton E. Kile $1250 as an addition to the fund which bears his name; and from the estate of Alexander G. Mercer $6200 as an addition to the Hall Mercer Scholarship Fund.

▶ Two GIFTS were acknowledged from Brown classes: $2345.50 as an addition to the Class of 1921 Scholarship Fund and a gift of $5000 from the Class of 1920, transmitted "without strings" to the University and destined to be set up as the Class of 1920 Fund. From the Brown Club of Boston $225 was given for scholarship use, while the Providence Brown Club was a contributor, along with J. Richmond Fales '10 and other friends, toward planting and other grounds improvement at Marvel Gym and the playing fields. An anonymous donor provided nearly $6000 for the purchase of football uniforms and equipment. The press box at Brown Field was enclosed as a $6145.50 benefaction from Lewis S. Milner '02. An anonymous gift of $800 aided the beautification of the campus, with another $170 received anonymously towards expenses of the department of Buildings and Grounds.

Victor Schwartz '07 was memorialized in a $100 gift from Elmer T. Stevens '04. The Brown Engineering Society added $525 to the James A. Hall Fund (1908), with Mrs. Hall also contributing to this memorial to the former professor. Alumni and friends added $56, to the E. Leo Barry Memorial Fund, originally established by the class of 1944 and aided since by a number of swimmers on the late coach's teams.

THE LADY WAS IMPRESSED: Dorothy Anne Greenan, 21 months old, looked proudly at her daddy's new Air Medal, just presented to Lt. (jg) Joseph Greenan USNR at ceremonies this spring before the Brown Naval Unit.

The Chafee Memorial Fund benefited from $550 received from the Mary Dexter Fund, Inc., and Henry S. Chafee '09. Dr. Charles H. Hare '85 added $13,000 to the fund which bears his name. The John G. Peterson Fund received $5000 from Mrs. Peterson, who continued this aid to scholarships. Three acts aided the program in music—an anonymous gift of $50 to establish the Hope Chatterton Music Award and a similar amount from the Stanport Manufacturing Co. for the Muriel Port Stevens Award. B. B. DeWolf gave $100 for musical scholarships. From the Lampfort Foundation came $150 as an addition to the Samuel C. and Miriam D. Lampfort Fund Prizes. From Edward J. Sovatkin $1000 as an addition to the Stanley B. Sovatkin (1938) Fund.

Alumni and friends gave $9400 through the John Carter Brown Library Associates, while the Friends of the Library contributed $610. From Builders Iron Foundry came $2000 as an addition to the Engineering Laboratory Addition Fund. Robert S. Holding '14 gave $1000 as an addition to the Robert S. Holding Fund. An anonymous $500 was added to the A.R.C. Fund. Harold P. Carver '31 added $3238 to the Harold P. Carver Scholarship Fund. Dr. Ilsley Boone '04 again made a gift to the Department of Biology for use of facilities at the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole. Donald G. Millar '19 provided for the purchase of new sails for the Brown dinghy fleet with a $500 gift.

Other donations noted: Anonymously, $260 as an addition to the Albert A. Bennett '72 Prize Fund. From the Central Falls High School Alumni Association $100 as an addition to the William Overton (1887) Fund. From alumni and friends, $513 for special purposes. From Brookline High School, $200 for scholarships. From Fred B. Perkins '19 $350; Mildred Perkins $175; and Lincoln Mills $525 for student aid.

The Corporation ◀

▶ ▶ RETIREMENT of Dr. Charles N. Arbuckle, member of the Board of Fellows at Brown since 1929, and elevation of Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., '09 and Dr. Albert C. Thomas '08 to the senior group in the University Corporation were announced following the annual meeting in University Hall June 15, which was one of the best attended in years. Mr. Hughes, New York lawyer who has been on the Corporation since 1933, joined his father, the former Chief Justice of the United States, on the Board of Fellows, while Dr. Thomas, a Trustee since 1942, continues Brown's long association with the First Baptist Church in Providence, whose historic meeting house was built in 1774 "for the publick Worship of Almighty God and also to hold Commencements in."

Named to the Board of Trustees at the same meeting were William Davis Miller '09 of Wakefield, R. I.; R. H. I. Goddard of Providence; Chauncey E. Wheeler '09 of Providence; and W. Earl Sprackling '12 of New York—the last two the leading candidates in the general balloting by alumni and alumnae and designated Alumni Trustees. All elections to the Board of Trustees are now for seven-year periods.

Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Sprackling succeed to the Corporation upon the retirement of Wayne M. Faunce '21 of New York and Howard A. Coffin '01 of Detroit, Alumni Trustees since 1939. In addition to Dr. Arbuckle's resignation, a second vacancy on the Board of Fellows had been created by the death of Albert L. Scott '00 of New York, former Secretary of the Corporation.

▶ THE NEW ELECTIONS to the Corporation continue the change in its personnel, President Henry M. Wriston pointed out that, even prior to the meeting yesterday, 27 of the 51 members had been elected since 1937, during which nine years a total of 82 individuals had served on the Corporation. Of them, 19 have served from one to five years, while 20 hold the same position they did in 1937.

G. Burton Hibbert, president of the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company, was elected deputy treasurer of the University. He and Donald S. Babcock, '10, also of Providence, were re-elected to the investment committee.

New Members of Athletic Council

▶ WILLIAM P. BURNHAM '07 of Boston, in his third year on the Athletic Advisory Council, is the new chairman of that board, succeeding Albert H. Poland '09. Mr. Burnham's election was announced following the meeting of the University Corporation on June 15. A devoted follower of Brown sports through the years, Mr. Burnham is an Alumni Trustee, past president of the Associated Alumni, and moving spirit behind the E. N. Robinson Collection of books on athletics in the John Hay Library.

New alumni representative on the Council is J. Richmond Fales '10 of Providence, elected in the general balloting this spring. He succeeds Lewis S. Milner '02 of Providence and has already served Brown athletics as a generous supporter on the sidelines. Replacing Mr. Poland, chairman for the past two years, as a Corporation member on the Council is James S. Eastham '19 of Andover, Mass. Alumni Trustee. Dr. Carl Pfaffman '33 of the Psychology Department is a new faculty representative, succeeding Prof. Walter H. Snell '13. Dr. Snell, of course, continues as Secretary of the Council in his capacity as Athletic Director.

Other members of the Athletic Advisory Council for 1946-1947 will be: President Wriston, Vice-President Bigelow, Vice-President Cochrane, C. Douglas Mercer '06, Alumni Trustee from New York, Prof. Robert F. Chambers '09, Prof. Norris W. Rakestraw, Paul N. Swaffield '16 of Boston, and Thomas F. Gilbane '33 of Providence, Nelson B. Jones '28, Director of Student Activities, and W. C. Worthington '23 also attend Council meetings. ◀

▶ ▶ Mobilizing the Campaign Army

▶ ▶ THE FIRST INSTALLMENT of the long list of chiefs and workers in the Housing and Development Campaign was announced by Chairman G. Edward Buxton '02 on July 1. They include area chairmen, vice-chairmen, town and city captains, and interviewers—their very names a guarantee of effective labors, their generous leadership significant of the spirit at large. The partial roster follows:

Johnny Greene Introduced Them

►► "I caught up with Housman first in Prof. Johnny Greene's Latin classes at Brown University in the middle twenties," said C. P. Ives '25 in one of his columns in the Baltimore Sun in June. "We were reading Catullus and the professor, a good teacher and a sound classicist, took a kind of proprietary pride in Housman, who was one of the very great classicists." There were some lively quotations recalled, and Ives continued: "Can you imagine the bang a joe-college aesthete vintage 1925, got out of that kind of 'scurlivity'? I roared and reveled in the stuff as did all of Johnny Greene's neophytes."

Ives' column of "Notions About a Pessimistic Poet" was prompted by the double anniversary of Housman's birth 50 years ago and his death in 1936. It was a fine appraisal and, like Toynbee's interpretation with which the Baltimore editorial writer agreed, "this is to give tragic dignity to a really great poet and assign to his noble poetry a not ignoble place in the testament of man."

Anthology-Bound?

► THE BALTIMORE SUN's "Thought for Today" on May 14 was a quotation from Dr. Wriston, describing the duties of the Brown University president: "The president is expected to be an educator, to have been at some time a scholar, to have judgment about finance, to know something of construction maintenance and labor policy, to speak virtuously in words that charm and never offend, to take bold positions with which no one will disagree, to consult everyone and follow all proffered advice, and do everything through committees, but with great speed and without error."

Alumni will recognize the quote as to be on the pamphlet on "The Structure of the University," C. P. Jives '29 of the Sun ventures to say "it will find itself in the anthologies."

► Phi Beta Kappa's Meeting

► DR. MERRILL K. BENNETT '19, executive director of the Food Research Institute and new dean of the School of Social Science at Stanford University, was elected to alumni membership at the 174th annual meeting of the Rhode Island Alpha of Phi Beta Kappa held June 15 in conjunction with an initiation of undergraduates and the yearly luncheon.

The election of officers brought a surprise in that William W. Moss '94, associate justice of the Rhode Island Supreme Court, declined re-election to the office of treasurer which he has filled for 31 years. He was succeeded by Ronald B. Smith '23, and praised warmly for his service in a resolution presented by Prof. C. R. Adams. The other officers continue to serve: President—Prof. R. Bruce Lindsay '20; Vice-President—Claude R. Branch '07; Secretary—Prof. William T. Hastings '03.

Other posts were filled following nomination by Elmer D. Nickerson's committee: Historian—Prof. Lawrence C. Wroth; Auditor—George L. Miner; Alumni and Honorary Membership—Prof. I. J. Kapstein, Dr. Margaret B. Stillwell, Charles J. Hill; Arrangements—Thomas F. Black, Eleanor Allen Goodrich, Winfield T. Scott, and Dr. Lindsay; New Chapters—Prof. Hastings, Prof. Robert F. Chambers, Prof. Leland M. Goodrich; Nomination—Roger T. Clapp, Prof. Charles H. Smiley, Fred B. Perkins. Prof. Sharon Brown was the luncheon speaker, on the topic "The Descending Spiral of Taste."

Dr. Bennett, new alumni member, was chief of the division of food allocations of the Foreign Economic Administration during the war. He is a fellow of the American Statistical Association and the author of numerous studies on the economics of food consumption.

► Elected Alumni Directors

► FRED A. ORIS '03, Providence lawyer, and Chester S. Stackpole '22, Baltimore utility executive, were elected to the Board of Directors of the Associated Alumni by alumni voters in their respective regions this June. Otis will represent Rhode Island, while Stackpole is in the Atlantic-Midland Region. Unopposed were the following candidates, who will also be members of the Board for two-year terms: New England (outside of Rhode Island)—Carleton D. Morse '13, Needham, Mass., laundry owner, re-elected; Central Region—Roy H. Smith '01 of Kent, Ohio, president of Lamson & Sessions; Western Region—Fremont E. Roper '11 of Berkeley, Cal., Standard Oil executive, re-elected.

Election results were announced by Alumni President Moses L. Crossley '09 at Commencement time.

Commencement March ◀ ◀

▶ ▶ IT WAS AN OPERATION of no little magnitude, the ordering of Brown's Commencement procession, for the alumni thronged to the campus to march as the custom-prescribed escort to the June graduates. And while the Chief Marshal was Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, celebrating his 30th anniversary at Brown, the full credit for arranging the vast details goes to J. Cunliffe Bullock '02, Chief of Staff. The latter accepted the responsibility at short notice and performed his task admirably.

The procession was formed on the Front Campus because of the replanting on the Middle, and the setting made a rich, animated picture as the alumni gathered. To the music of three bands, playing the familiar, ceremonious strains of the Brown Commencement March of Wally Reeves, the line moved out toward George Street, swung into the Middle Campus in front of the John Carter Brown, and made the circuit back by way of Sayles and Rockefeller Hall before starting down College Hill. The end of the line was not yet in motion when Senior Class Marshal Robert M. Austin passed through the out-swung Van Winkle Gates. It was not only a procession of great length, but the sidewalk witnesses made one of the largest companies of all time.

Last of all came Prof. Ben W. Brown '19, bearer of the Mace; Chancellor Henry D. Sharpe '94 and President Wriston; and Michael F. Costello '05, high sheriff of Providence County, with high hat and sword.

Among the aides were: John A. Gammons '98, Fred A. Otis '03, Denison W. Greene '24, Kent F. Matteson '28, Thomas F. Gilbane '33, Harry H. Burton '16, H. Stanton Smith '21, Arnold K. Brown '27, Brenton G. Smith '11, Prof. C. R. Adams '21, Prof. Sinclair W. Armstrong, Henry G. Clark '07, Marjorie Moore '42. Marshals included: Prof. Herbert N. Couch, Prof. Arian R. Coolidge '24, Harvey A. Baker '03, Albert L. Midgley '01, Albert A. Baker '84, Prof. A. K. Potter '86, Earle B. Dane, Jr., '41, Earl C. Tanner '41, Stephen B.

Nicholson, Jr., '36, Joseph Olney, Jr., '36, Richard A. Bowen '31, Robert F. Eddy '31, Ralph R. Crosby '26, Noel M. Field '26, William T. Brightman, Jr., '21, Russell P. Jones '21, Francis J. Brady '16, Guy W. Wells '16, Earle B. Dane '11, Robert Cushman Murphy '11, Albert W. Clafin '06, Frank F. Mason '08, Elmer S. Chace '01, Henry C. Hart '01, John S. Murdock '96, Charles R. Easton '96, Lewis S. Milner '02, Edwin A. Barrows '91, Jay Z. James '46, Frank E. Kilpatrick, Jr., '46, Robert R. Bair '46, Walter E. Jansen '46, Kathleen L. Anderson '46, Rita A. Riley '46, Joseph E. Ledden.

▶ A Summer Grind

▶ ▶ VETERANS took over the Brown campus as the summer session opened July 8, for four out of five were ex-service men among the 670 enrolled for the eight weeks. They included 192 Brown men newly returned from the armed forces, 302 students from the previous semester, and 125 newcomers. They are in for a real siege of hard work.

Unlike the July-October semester of wartime acceleration, the session is not a normal part of the college year: the intention is to provide needed courses for veterans' credit. Each man selected two courses from the 37 offered, with liberal arts predominating and introductory philosophy marked by a heavy registration. Each course meets five times a week, and special double courses in French, German and Spanish compress a full year of foreign language study into eight weeks. No college "activities" are scheduled, although the Mr. and Mrs. Club is expected won't be idle and Yacht Club and Colgate Hoyt Pool will see summer use. Chapel and Saturday classes are being omitted. Classes are held for the most part in two buildings, to permit renovation and redecoration of the rest.

The summer opened with a special convocation at which Prof. Philip Taft was the speaker.

▶ NOR IS THERE any summer lull in University Hall. It's most obvious on the second floor, though far from a monopoly there. A pressure beyond belief is centered on the Admission Office as thousands of applicants of high quality, many of them with good alumni sponsorship, learn that the competition for space in the September class is terrific.

We're promised a comprehensive story on admission in the near future. For the present, let us merely say we believe Dean Emory R. Walker and his augmented staff are approaching their tremendous task safely and heroically. We bespeak for them the understanding and appreciation of all as they attempt honestly to do the best for the boys and for Brown. Inevitably there will be disappointments, and a national estimate is that a half-million applicants will be denied access to college this fall, but Brown will accept boys to the limit of its capacity and will try to see that those boys are the best available, the most deserving.

An innovation is the new Veterans' Extension Division, open to many who will not be selected for the College proper. It will offer courses of College standard, and some students may prove their qualifications for the College by outstanding work in the VED. It is a patriotic contribution which Brown is making in the emergency. We'll have its story for you later, too. ◀

ALONG BENEFIT STREET the Commencement band leads the Chief Marshal and his aides between the ranks of the graduates.

2 Bears ◀

▶▶ REVIVING the Brown Bear Award on a national basis, the Associated Alumni conferred it upon two alumni leaders at the Marvel Gym dinner June 14. The statuette, originally created by the New York Brown Club, honored Henry S. Chafee '09 and Ralph M. Palmer '10 for outstanding service as a son of Brown.

In making the presentations, Alumni President Moses L. Crossley '09 read the following citations:

"RALPH MALLORY PALMER: In loyalty and devotion to Brown you have ever stood high. As an officer of the Class of 1910, as an enthusiastic and inspiring leader in the Brown University Club of New York, as an Alumni Trustee, as a director of the Associated Alumni, and in many other ways, you have rendered faithful and conspicuous service to your Alma Mater. You have an abiding faith in Brown University. To foster Alumni relations you led the Brown Club in New York to establish the Brown Bear Award in 1940. With characteristic magnanimity you counseled the Club this year to transfer the Brown Bear Award to the Associated Alumni to become the Brown Alumni Award.

"We are happy to recognize your extraordinary services to Brown and deem it fitting that the first Brown Alumni Award should be made to you—a man 'duly qualified' for discharging the offices of Life with usefulness and reputation."

"HENRY SHARPE CHAFEE: Born and bred in the atmosphere of the interests and traditions of Brown University, you have been a loyal and devoted son, rendering conspicuous service in the promotion of the welfare of your Alma Mater. As a faithful and efficient secretary of the Class of 1909, as a progressive leader when president of the Associated Alumni, as a wise and valued counselor in the management of the ALUMNI MONTHLY and in many other ways, you have given freely and generously of your time, energy and means to the cause of Brown. As ambassador of Brown you have served your community with honor and distinction.

"For such service to Brown University we are happy to present you an Alumni Award—a bronze statuette of the Brown Bear, symbol of the strength and enduring qualities of what is best in life."

Ten alumni had previously received the Brown Bear Award: In 1940—Dr. Crossley, Dr. John J. Morrissey '10, and the late Col. Karl D. Gardner '13; in 1941—Quentin J. Reynolds '24, W. Earl Sprackling '12, Dr. William W. Browne '08; 1942—Alexander Graham '06, Denis F. O'Brien '98, and the late Albert B. Meacham '96; 1946—Nathaniel Blaisdell '83. In receiving all rights to the statuette from the New York Club, the Associated Alumni expect to make annual awards in future.

Breakfast at the S.A.B. ◀◀

▶▶ DEPARTMENTAL LOYALTIES run high at Brown, and the biologists are among the leaders in this regard. One evidence of this for several years has been the annual breakfast for Brunonians during the General Meeting of the Society of American Bacteriologists. This year the official program of the S.A.B. even went so far as to list the Brown breakfast, during the May meeting in Detroit.

"It is always pleasant and rather astonishing to be reminded anew of the number of Brown men in this field," writes Dr. Kenneth L. Burdon '18, Professor of Bacteriology and Immunology at Baylor University's College of Medicine in Houston, Tex. "They occupy positions of importance in all branches of the science—in teaching and in research; in general, industrial and medical microbiology."

He sends us the names of 22 alumni who were the guests of Harry A. Burnett, Jr., '33, President of Digest Ferments Co., Detroit: Prof. T. G. Anderson '31 of Penn State; Dr. J. E. Blair, Ph.D. '23, of the Hospital for Joint Diseases, New York; L. V. Blubaugh, Sc.M. '32, Squibb's; Dr. Janet M. Bourn '15 of Lansing, Mich.; C. W. Bohrer, Sc.M. '37, National Canners' Association; F. L. Carpenter, Sc.M. '34, R. I. State; M. W. Chase '27, Rockefeller Institute, N. Y.; P. F. Clark '04 of the University of Wisconsin; Samuel R. Damon '16, Indiana State Health Laboratory; J. M. Darlington, Ph.D. '35, Lancaster, Pa.; R. P. Elrod '36, Rockefeller Institute, Princeton; H. W. Lyall '08, New York State Laboratory; R. M. Pike '28, Southwestern Medical College; W. S. Preston '28 and Mrs. Preston of the University of Cincinnati; R. Rustigian, Sc.M. '40 from Brown; Eleanor V. Smith '25, Smith College; Prof. C. A. Stuart '18 from Brown; H. Welch '25, U. S. Food and Drug Administration; K. M. Wheeler, Ph.D. '37, Connecticut State Laboratory.

In addition, at least two other Brown men had papers on the program: Dr. Philip B. Hadley '03 of Western Pennsylvania Hospital, Institute of Pathology, Pittsburgh; and MacDonald Fulton, A.M. '30 of the University of Texas School of Medicine, as well as Professor Stuart.

Others who frequently attend such Brown bacteriology gatherings are: Courtland Mudge '11 of the University of California; J. Russell Eddy, Ph.D. '18 of Berkeley, Cal.; Charles Arthur '18, Pasadena, Cal.; Donald MacPherson, A.M. '24 of the University of North Carolina, and Maj. E. J. Staff '15, formerly of the R. I. State Laboratory, now commanding officer of the 1st Service Command Laboratory. The group was saddened by the recent deaths of George H. Robinson, Ph.D. '14 of the Singer Research Laboratory, Pittsburgh; and Albert C. Hunter, Ph.D. '18 of the Food and Drug Administration.

Altogether, as Prof. Burdon remarks, "Brown men have made and are making careers of notable usefulness and reputation in the field of microbiology."

Track Looks Up

▶▶ BROWN'S RENASCENT TRACK team beat Connecticut and Northeastern, took the pentagonal at New Hampshire, and was a well-placed fourth in the New England Intercollegiate as Ivan Fuqua brought his first season to a close. The losses were to M. I. T. and State.

The leaders in the pentagonal were also the stars of the year: Bill Dwyer, who was first in the 100 and in the 220 low hurdles (11 points); Manny Costa, winner of the 440 (10 points); Paul Flick, winner in the shotput (10 points); Sleichner, who took the high hurdles and tied in the pole vault (9 points); and Brooks, half-mile leader. The totals: Brown 64, New Hampshire 48, Maine 30, Boston College 16, Bates 9.

Dwyer earned the New England title in the 100 with a 9.8 sprint and also took the low hurdles, while Flick won the discus at the 130-foot distance. Flick also found a point in the shot and Brooks in the 880 for Brown's total of 17 points. The leaders were Tufts 24, Holy Cross 23, Rhode Island 20; followed by Boston U. 16, M. I. T. 14½, Wesleyan 11, Bowdoin 9, Connecticut 9, New Hampshire 7, Northeastern 6, Maine 5, Springfield 3½, Worcester Tech 2.

Brown packed plenty of power in the sprints all season, with clean sweeps against Northeastern and Connecticut. But the balance was there to provide threats in all events. Other winners through the spring were Bates, broad jump; Howerman, two-mile; Lauro, javelin; Carrier, low hurdles; Spriggs, high jump.

Scores of the dual meets follow: Brown 80, Connecticut 55; Brown 85, Northeastern 50; M. I. T. 77, Brown 58; State 89, Brown 46.

Paul Flick and Bill Dwyer of the 1946 track squad were runners-up in the New England AAU meet this June, the former in the discus, the latter in the 100. Winner of the hammer was Bob Bennett, former intercollegiate champion, who this summer entered Brown instead of returning to the University of Maine, which he attended before entering the service. He represented New England in the nationals, too, and was one of the leaders.

Only Two in Baseball

► DESPITE A MARKED improvement in its play in the late days of the schedule, the Brown Varsity baseball nine had few victories to post in its ledger for 1946. Coach Eddie Eayrs' early optimism over his material dwindled as the season progressed.

The scores: Yale 17, Brown 3, Brown 12, Tufts 0, Brown 7, Connecticut 5, Holy Cross 5, Brown 4, Harvard 4, Brown 1, Boston U. 13, Brown 6, Boston College 15, Brown 1, R. I. State 3, Brown 2, Holy Cross 15, Brown 2, Providence College 3, Brown 0, Harvard 15, Brown 9, Amherst 4, Brown 3, R. I. State 3, Brown 2.

High Spots: No errors afield and a seventh-inning pitching performance by Nichols beat Tufts. Brown came from behind against Connecticut, tying with two runs in the ninth and two more in the 10th, with Bryan pitching the distance. It would have been a tight contest but for 13 errors afield by the two teams. A three-run rally at Worcester just fell short of beating Holy Cross in the ninth inning of the first game. Brown had two men on and the head of the batting order up when it rained in the sixth inning of the Harvard game. A four-hitter by Bentley was wasted at Kingston when State's third unearned run won the game in the ninth. The second Holy Cross engagement was also a tight contest until 11 runs were added in the last three innings. Harvard came from behind in that return game with two five-run innings. Brown also led Amherst three times, scoring in the 10th and 11th only to lose. O'Reilly, Providence College winner, had revenge for a 1-0 beating by Brown in 1942. Bryan held State to seven hits in the finale, but Calverley got three of them and drove in all the winnings runs.

Lost and Found Dept.

► Unclaimed in the Alumni Office after Commencement was a pair of glasses (plastic rimmed) in a leather case which bore the imprint "Fritz and Hawley, New Haven and Bridgeport."

Three Anniversaries for the Benedictine

► "AS THEY USUALLY DID, the 22 Benedictine monks around the hollow square of tables ate their simple noon meal in silence. But then, since it was a special occasion, they broke out the good Priory port, to toast the eldest of their number. It was the Rev. Dom John Hugh Diman's 83rd birthday. It was also a memorable fortnight for him. Last week his old school, St. George's (Episcopal), one of the top U. S. prep schools, celebrated its 50th year. This week another of his old schools, Portsmouth Priory (Catholic), marked its 20th. He founded both, and was their first headmaster."

Thus Time on June 3 commenced an almost affectionate tribute to this celebrated Brown grad (1885), whose other school (Diman Vocational, in Fall River) also does him honor. His philosophy on education was characterized, as well as his philosophy on faith which led him, after appendicitis, into the Catholic religion and at 63 into the Benedictine novitiate. Other appreciative notice, including letters from classmates, brought pleasure to his three anniversaries.

Chief of Folk Lore

►► THE ARCHIVE of American Folk Song in the Music Division of the Library of Congress, with the largest collection of recorded folk music in the world, has its new chief Dr. Duncan B. M. Emrich '32. The official American historian at General Eisenhower's Headquarters overseas during the war, Major Emrich is again a civilian.

A colleague in the Library of Congress is Frederick R. Goff '37, acting chief of the Rare Book Room.

Folklore has been a major interest of Dr. Emrich since his student days. He did graduate work at Columbia, the University of Madrid, and Harvard. In Spain he explored the influence of Arabic culture on Western Europe during the Middle Ages and particularly that part of the culture relating to the transfer of folk tales. He received the degree of Doctor en Letras from the University of Madrid in 1934. He continued his studies back in this country under Prof. Kittredge of Harvard, where he received his Ph.D. in 1937, after holding appointments as Shattuck Scholar and Edward Austin Fellow. From 1937 to 1940 he taught at Columbia and at the Juilliard School of Music, then went to Denver University as assistant professor, collecting regional folk material in the West.

Dr. Emrich has been a regular contributor to the California Folklore Quarterly, the Southern Folklore Quarterly, and the Moslem World. He holds membership in the California Folklore Society, Southern Folklore Society, American Folklore Society, National Council on Religion and Higher Education, and the American Oriental Society.

Immediately prior to his appointment to the Library of Congress staff, Dr. Emrich served with the U. S. Army as an officer with the Military Intelligence Division. Before going overseas in January, 1944, he had attended the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth. With the end of the war in Europe, Major Emrich was transferred from his duties as historian to the headquarters of the U. S. AAF and returned to Washington, being released in October to take up his new work. The Provisional French Government awarded him the Croix de Guerre in June, 1945.

The Archive of American Folk Song in the Library of Congress was established in 1928 and contains more than 8000 recordings of folk music, gathered from all parts of the United States and in various foreign lands. Most of the recordings were gathered in the field by representatives of the Library using portable sound equipment. It is preeminent among such collections in the world.

▶ ▶ WILLIAM ELLIS, 68 years old, was among the Honored Guests at the Dinner of the Associated Alumni held at Marvel Gymnasium during Commencement Week-end. He took a bow as the Senior Alumnus present, and was photographed for the newspapers with President Wriston.

Edward S. Adams, "Dean of Fall River historians and for two generations a leader in the city's educational and cultural progress," was the subject of a fine feature article in the Herald News on the occasion of his 90th birthday June 15. His civic services were also noted: past president of the Fall River Historical Society and of the Home for the Aged, former chairman of the School Committee and City Councillor. The interviewer found him in fine health at his home, 660 Rock St. Clarence E. Bury '86 was good enough to send us the clipping.

Professor George Grafton Wilson was greeted cordially by a number of his former students when he attended the reception before the annual New York dinner late in March. He was the oldest alumnus present.

John Goudie Gordon died suddenly at Geneva Point Camp, Lake Winnepesaukee June 19, 1946. He lived and worked in Lowell for many years in moth suppression work and as superintendent of a city department for 30 years but for the past two years had lived with a niece in Methuen. He was a member of the Lowell Board of Aldermen at one time. As Howard D. Smith '03 pointed out in a recent letter from Chelmsford, Mass., "he was very loyal to Brown and was present at the June 3rd meeting of the Merrimack Valley Brown Club in Andover."

T. E. Brown of Roanoke, N. C., has had a couple of setbacks in health, but has recovered with everyone marveling at his endurance, according to a letter from Mrs. Brown. She sent best wishes for the reunion.

Dr. Harry L. Grant of 297 Wyaland Ave., Providence, has accepted designation by the Alumni Office and will act as Secretary of the Class as successor to the late Edward B. Stiness.

Dr. William H. Magill has completed 40 years of service as medical examiner of Providence County. According to a feature article in the Providence Journal, he will talk about anything except violent deaths and read anything except Whodunits.

Dan Howard, former superintendent of schools in Windsor, Conn., has decided his home in Windsor to the Conn. Co-operative Federation. He will retain a portion of the house for his own use, but he will probably continue to travel much in his continuing battle for liberal ideals.

Elected to Wheaton's Board

▶ PROF. WILLIAM T. HASTINGS '03 chairman of the English Department at Brown University and Secretary of the Faculty, is a new member of the Board of Trustees of Wheaton College at Norton, Mass. We hear that he was chosen as the result of Wheaton's search for a distinguished representative of the teaching profession to bring academic experience to the deliberations of its Board. Prof. Hastings is an authority on Shakespeare, author, editor, and member of Phi Beta Kappa's national Senate.

At its 170th annual meeting the Rhode Island Alpha of Phi Beta Kappa accepted with thanks the gift of the key of Frank G. Lewis, late librarian of the Crozer Theological Seminary.

J. D. E. Jones and Robert M. Brown spent the winter at Winter Park, Fla., and Dr. Charles M. Poor was at Clermont, a few miles away.

Judge William W. Moss and Mrs. Moss entertained their five children and eight grandchildren at the first complete family reunion in a number of years in June at their Uxbridge summer home. One daughter was in Sweden during the war, another on a Wyoming ranch, and the third nearer home, in Providence. The two sons were cited for conspicuous service—one as a civilian transport pilot, the other as an Admiral's aide overseas during the war. Both are Brown alumni.

Harold C. Field's son, Lt. Comdr. R. H. Field, was recently awarded a Bronze Star Medal at ceremonies held in Lyman Gymnasium.

Chancellor Henry D. Sharpe is seeking information with regard to Nicholas Cooke who became Governor of Rhode Island when the Colonial Governor Wanton was deposed in 1775. Specifically, Mr. Sharpe hopes to learn whether a portrait of Governor Cooke exists.

1895

Prof. Walter G. Cady, 44 years a member of the Faculty of Wesleyan University, entered upon his retirement at the June Commencement, but his plan is to continue his experimental research in the field of piezo-electricity and ultrasonics where he is renowned. He will still use the facilities of Scott Laboratory in Middletown and live at 49 High St. His book on piezo-electricity has just been published by McGraw-Hill. He holds the Morris Liebmann Memorial Prize from the Institute of Radio Engineers and the Duddell medal, awarded by the Physical Society of London.

1896

T. C. Merrill recently sent a large crate of books and pamphlets to the United Nations collection of the John Hay Library. He lived in Paris throughout the war.

1897

John D. Rockefeller recently gave $500,000 to New York University's Bellevue Medical Center campaign fund; he promised at the same time an additional $500,000 when half the campaign total has been reached.

William A. Harris of Springfield, Mass., is back in stride with the lifting of gasoline restrictions. His winter business trip sounded like 12 states—9000 miles of driving into 12 States.

Robert J. Fuller of 8 Ridge Rd., Hanover, N. H., retires on August 1 as superintendent of schools in Hanover. He began superintending schools in 1900 and has been at Hanover for the past 18 years.

Dr. William Adams Slade's "Processional" was sung twice in May by the Brown Choir in Chapel. It is a "Hymn for All Peoples" written to the music of the Ode to Joy from Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

The first verse follows:

God of Man and Lord of Nations,
Our eternal source and goal,
Changeless might of Thy creations,
By Whose power man shall be whole,
Haste Thy day when Love shall tender
Man, Thine offspring, unto Thee,
Whole in oneness of surrender,
One in wholeness of the free.

E. W. McKeen writes from 16 Winslow Place, Rutherford, N. J., to speak proudly of grandchildren and give other family news, particularly of W. A. McKeen '29.

Nat Tufts, supervisory manager of the Carter Hotel System, has recently returned from a business trip to the Pacific Coast. En route he saw Harold Mayrort, 1900, in Chicago between trains. In Los Angeles he was entertained at the home of Nat Myrick and in Sierra Madre by Arthur Pritchard, both of 1900. Neither Myrick, Pritchard, nor Tufts had seen each other since their graduation. He also was in touch with Arthur Macurda, '95, and Lawrence Larrabee, '09.

Dr. J. Bruce Gilman, for 23 years pastor of the First Baptist Church, New Brunswick, N. J., has now retired with emeritus status. He and Mrs. Gilman live at 55 Cleveland Ave., Highland Park, N. J., and in the summer at their cottage at Pontoosuc Lake, Pittsfield, Mass. Their older daughter, Katherine, is head of the public library in Tuckahoe, N. Y. Their younger daughter, Mrs. Edgar A. Butters, Jr., recently received a Cresson travelling prize at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and the $100 Toppan prize for a painting.

Degree and Godspeed

▶ PROF. STACY R. WARBURTON '98 received the honorary degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology this June at the Commencement of Berkeley Baptist Divinity School in Berkeley, Calif., from whose faculty he retired this year after more than 21 years as Professor of Christian Missions. Another presentation was a beautifully bound volume of letters of appreciation from church leaders in many parts of the country.

In addition to his fame as a teacher, Dr. Warburton is the author of a number of books, including the biography "Eastward! The Story of Adoniram Judson," Brown 1807, the great missionary and scholar.

When Dr. Samuel T. Arnold went to Bucknell late in June to represent Brown at Bucknell's centennial, William I. King made him particularly welcome. Mr. King, Pittsburgh lawyer, is a Trustee of Bucknell, of which college his father was for some years the oldest living graduate.

J. Herbert Ward of Classical High School was chairman of the committee in charge of the Rhode Island Schools' Science Fair for 1946, an extraordinarily successful enterprise and the first in New England. The project, attended by thousands, was dedicated to "the recognition and development of pre-college science talent among boys and girls in public, private, and parochial schools." Mr. Ward's committee did a fine job in arranging program and attracting outstanding exhibits and entries. Prof. Charles A. Smiley of Brown was a popular speaker, while a half-year tuition scholarship award from the College and Pembroke press top prizes in the competition. Jack Lubrano '24 of William A. Briggs Jr. High School in Cranston was another committee-man.

Professor Arthur J. Andrews, executive secretary, will be an active participant in the 12th Annual Session of The Institute of World Affairs to be held at Warner, N. H., Aug. 17-24. Prof. Andrews will be one of the leaders in the discussion of "The New Geography of the World" and will be the special guest of The Institute on French night.

Col. G. A. "Bird" Taylor has retired as Secy. of the Conn. Valley Game Bird Assoc. The Springfield Union says that he "has been one of our outstanding workers in the promotion of better bird hunting and conservation in the Connecticut Valley." The Col. is also famous as a judge and breeder of fine setters.

Alan R. Wheeler, head of the history dept. at St. George's School, Middletown, has retired after 44 years of teaching.

Col. G. Edward Buxton is the new chairman of the Panhandle Producing and Refining Co., elected by the board of directors which won control of the company at its annual meeting in May. He continues as a director of Fruit of the Loom Corp.

Bruce Bennett is living "in restricted but wonderful contentment" in New Paltz, N. Y., he wrote to Jerry Holmes recently. He retired from his teaching several years ago to have more time for writing and lecturing, but serious illnesses resulted in blindness. His fine note spoke of "fond memories of much travel, many friends, remarkable experiences, memorable work accomplished, active interests still, and few regrets."

J. L. G. Pottorf, high school principal in Canton, O., for 36 years, ended 42 years in teaching with the June graduation exercises at McKinley High School, whose principal he had been since 1918. He had continued for two years beyond the retirement limit as a wartime service to education. School Superintendent said the problem of replacing him was one of the most difficult he had encountered in a long time: "Mr. Pottorf has been such an influence for good in the lives of the 1,672 students who have passed through McKinley High under his administration . . . He is in excellent health and had an exceedingly fine school year just ending, but we must now respect his wish to take things easy."

Mr. Pottorf, who thus graduated with the class of 1946 at McKinley, as he put it, has been president of the Ohio High School Principals' Association, the Ohio High School Teachers Association and the Northeast Ohio Teachers Association. After teaching in New Brighton, Pa., Akron, and Pittsburgh, Mr. Pottorf went to Canton in 1907. He became principal of McKinley when it received its first pupils in 1918, serving during the school's entire life until now. During his administration, McKinley won state and national scholastic designation and honors in football, swimming, speech, basketball, track, golf, and poetry.

Fred J. Cox of Perth Amboy, N. J., after a long and noteworthy connection with the New Jersey Association of Insurance Agents, has resigned as chairman of the public relations committee to devote more time to relaxation.

Edward N. White has retired after 25 years of service with the American Marine Hull Insurance Syndicate of N. Y. and will make his home at Falmouth, Mass.

Robert Forster has changed his address to Journey's End, Green Pond, N. J.

Dr. George W. Eddy will devote all his time to business research following his resignation this June as instructor in history and economics at South High School, Youngstown, O. He will continue to operate the Mahoning County Business Research, "a one-man show" (as the Youngstown Vindicator called it) which he began 13 years ago, and issues the Business Month. The Vindicator said: "Probably no teacher in the system has taken a greater part in community affairs, as well as a leading role among the teachers themselves." His "Civic View of Teaching History" has been widely quoted and reprinted, and he has been an active church leader, organizer of forums, civic clubs, a world traveller, and a good citizen in general. Although his work in higher education took him to Harvard and Ohio State, he has a deep interest in Brown.

Comdr. Otis J. Case has returned to civilian medical practice after serving four years in the Navy. His home address is now 125 Burbank Drive, Snyder, N. Y.

Raymond W. Seamans of 1136 Central Ave., Needham, Mass., is an engineer and estimator with John Bowen Co. of Boston.

1906

Dr. Albert W. Clafflin, president of the Rhode Island College of Pharmacy, was elected and installed Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Rhode Island Grand Lodge of Masons at the annual convocation in Masonic Temple recently in Providence. He was also honored as recipient of the 33rd Degree.

For the first time since graduation the Class did not have a dinner of its own during Commencement week. None of us spoke of the precedent with any degree of pleasure. At the call of Secretary Branch, we met at The University Club at 5 o'clock Friday, June 14, had cocktails and conversation and then went to Marvel Gymnasium to join in the general alumni gathering. We talked particularly of our 40th Reunion in June, 1947, and agreed that the Reunion Committee should begin its work early next fall. Present were Branch, Streeter, W. P. Burnham, Grover, Gurney, Kriebel, Shade, Clark, Graves, Harris, Brooks, Cummings, Barnock, Knowles, Curran, and Sweet.

Everybody signed the cheering letters Claude wrote to President Hurley, Asa Briggs, and Bob Jones, all of whom have been out of circulation in recent months. But they are improving, and we hope that they will be fit and ready for duty long before the time for our 40th approaches.

George Hurley has been away from this office since last November. Bob Jones spent nine weeks in hospital, underwent two major operations and a minor one (if we have the count correctly), and went to work again on part time in late May. His golf game is something to reminisce about, but he intends to do some sailing at Sakonnet this summer. Asa Briggs, who carried a heavy load during the war as Assistant Superintendent of Rhode Island Hospital, collapsed in the late spring. He has been recuperating at his home at 184 Power St., Providence 6.

Fred S. Auty and Mrs. Auty came to Providence from Cambridge for Commencement, and Fred joined a few of us in the march down the Hill.

R. W. McPhee, publisher of the Washtenaw Post-Tribune in Ann Arbor, Mich., wrote shortly after Commencement that he hoped to be in New York in July. "There's a possibility of my coming to Providence sometime about the middle of the month," he added. "If I do come, I'll not fail to find you if you are in the State . . ." The Post-Tribune, he told us in an earlier letter, is building up slowly. He is "looking forward to our 40th Reunion."

Myron H. S. Affleck, Jr., better known as Bill, is New England representative of Industry and Power, a post he took over after release from the Army. Spike himself should now be back in Portland, Me., after a long business trip South and West.

Charles R. Stark, Jr., says that his current job as Sunday editor of the Spokesman-Review, Spokane, Wash., is one of the best he has ever had on a newspaper. And why? "Bankers' hours, no deadlines to worry about daily, and a chance to write nothing

"Forty-Nine Years Late"

► THE REV. DR. J. L. PEACOCK '00 of Glen Falls, N. Y., gave the baccalaureate sermon to the Class of 1946 at Worcester Academy June 2. The following day, after the boys had been awarded their diplomas, Dr. Peacock was surprised to receive a diploma himself, as of the Class of 1897.

Fifty years ago he had left Worcester at the end of his Junior year, preferring to enter Brown at once and save a year, as he was able to do because of his advanced standing. His graduation from the Academy thus came, as the Worcester Telegram put it, "49 years late."

but feature stuff. I'm really getting spoiled." Charlie's youngest son, Bill, received his B.A. degree from the University of California at Los Angeles in June, together with commission as Ensign, USNR, and expected to go to Harvard School of Business Administration for six months concentrated work covering requirements for the Master's degree.

W. K. White's tribute to the late Vic Schwartz struck a responsive note as we read it in a letter from Bill, who carries on with Findlays, Ltd., stove manufacturers, in Canton Place, Ont. "The outstanding man of our class . . . he was a fine combination of a bright character, athletic ability, and a high order of intellect. Those of us who are left will have most fond remembrances of good times together with him."

Harvey M. Kelley's daughter, Miss Elizabeth Clark Kelley, was associated with the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, war service unit, in Oak Ridge, Tenn., during the war. We have read of her engagement to the Rev. Paul M. Conley of Pittsburgh. The Kelleys live at 102 Valentine St., Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Miss Nancy Sackett Snow, daughter of Mrs. A. Chester Snow and our late classmate, was married in Providence, Dec. 20, 1945, to Lt. (jg) Henry R. Bailey, USNR, of Whitinsville, Mass. Mrs. Benjamin L. Cook, Jr., was matron of honor for her sister, Mrs. Bailey is a graduate of Westover School, Lt. Bailey of Harvard.

Dr. C. W. Way, Secretary and Reporter of the Medical Society of Cape May County, New Jersey, was disappointed in not being able to come to New England and Providence at Commencement time. "Far too busy to suit me, now that I am back in civilian practice," he wrote from Sea Isle City. "Would like to see Shan Clark and all the fine old crowd."

Prof. Vernon K. Kriebel of the Trinity College chemistry dept. recently secured a patent for the production of formic acid from prussic acid. At the present time formic acid is made from carbon monoxide and caustic soda.

Dr. Herbert E. Harris is a member of the committee of Providence County Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, in charge of respirators in the chapter's area.

Your Secretary records with regret the deaths of Samuel A. Halsey, Aug. 10, 1945; Edward Joseph Brennan, Oct. 3, 1945; Carl E. Richardson, M.D., July 30, 1945; Edward Sumner Bailey, Feb. 9, 1946; and Douglas Nisbet Allan, March 20, 1946. To the families of our classmates go in full measure the sympathies of the Class. Ted Bailey was with us part of the time during our big reunion in 1942. Doug Allan was always active in class affairs. We in Providence will long remember his hearty interest, his genial smile, and his readiness to do whatever his assignment called for.

Leon E. Varnum has retired from the faculty of Lincoln High School after 33 years of teaching in Jersey City. He had been head of the Science Department at Lincoln, of which school Thomas H. Quigley '11 is principal. The two Brown men saw their school grown from a small one to the second largest high school in New Jersey in 1934, when it had an enrollment of more than 5000. Mr. Varnum has taken over the management of Massacum Lodge at Bradford, N. H. His son, Richard E., was killed in action on the Cotentin peninsula in 1944.

Mrs. James A. Hall could not attend the class clambake because she was recovering from what she referred to as her "first experience as Mother-of-the-Bride" and was in Cutchunk. She sent greetings to all Jim's classmates.

C. LeRoy Grinnell has been telling in the Newport County Sentinel why he chose Brown as his college. His reasons were interesting and his choice fortunate for us all.

A. K. Westervelt's plan to come from Iowa for the Commencement had to be altered when he underwent an operation about that time. His wife and sons have been on the campus in recent years, but not Westy, as far as we know.

Four members of the Brown Corporation, including our classmate William Davis Miller, are among the 15 trustees of the People's Savings Bank in Providence: Claude R. Branch '07, Donald S. Babcock '10, and Thomas E. Steere '98, together with William H. Edwards '19, former Alumni Trustee. Miller and Branch are vice-presidents, while Miller, Babcock, Edwards, and Steere are on the Board of Investment.

The Return of Tsung-fa Liu

► TSUNG-FA LIU '15 didn't get back to Providence at Commencement time, although he had hoped to attend his reunion. His classmates were disappointed, too, for they wanted to hear the dramatic story of his successful concealment from the Japanese in Manila during the war years. A prominent business man in China before the war, he and his daughter Clara were caught in Manila on the day of Pearl Harbor.

Mr. Liu's address in New York in June was the Beaux Arts Hotel, 310 E. 44th St., according to Dr. Stephen D. Pyle '10. The latter recalls Mr. Liu as one attending a Brown gathering in the Pyle home in Peking during President Barbour's visit to the Orient, and the two have seen each other frequently since. Two sons, Paul and Ernest Liu will soon be ready for college.

BROWN HONORARY DEGREES went to eight alumni at the 1946 Commencement (citations on pages 8 and 9). Top row, left to right—Maj. Gen. Royal B. Lord '21, President Gordon K. Chalmers '25, Maj. Gen. William C. Chase '16, Rev. C. R. Chappell '06; lower row—George W. Potter '21, Col. H. Stanford McLeod '16, Rev. W. Douglas Swaffield '06, Col. Dwight T. Colley '18.

Donald V. Richardson has retired to Wardsboro, Vt.

1910

When the class was holding its reunion, a disappointed Stephen D. Pyle was convalescing in the Atlantic City Hospital and was due to remain there for several weeks.

At the recent Boston Brown Club Annual Banquet, the Class of 1910 was represented by Seth Kalberg, Ben Miller, Ed Spiker, and Allen Young.

Rev. Allen D. Creelman, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, North Scituate, Mass., was honored by a reception in celebration of his 25th anniversary as Pastor. Mr. Creelman has been very active in Massachusetts church work and in the affairs of his community.

Herman C. Copeland's new address is 15805 Chadbourne Rd., Shaker Heights 20, Ohio.

1911

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Chase of Ridgewood, N. J., were recently given a reception by the Pawtucket Community Players in Pawtucket, R. I. Mr. Chase was the organization's first president.

1912

Max L. Grant's picture recently appeared in the Providence Journal. He was being kissed by a beautiful lady. The occasion was a testimonial dinner in appreciation of his 20 years' service as president of the Miriam Hospital. The lady was his wife.

George V. Kendall, formerly Colonel on General MacArthur's staff, has resumed work as Dean of the Faculty and Milligan Professor of English in Wabash College, Crawfordville, Indiana.

J. Taylor Wilson is acting chief of Research Control Branch in the industrial section of the U. S. Military Government's Economic Division in Germany. His work is to diagnose economic trends in Germany, study methods by which any future German war machine might be built, and prescribe methods for preventing such a possibility. His address: APO 742, c/o Postmaster New York City.

Prof. Charles Abbott's son, John Abbott, has been called as assistant minister to the Beneficent Church, Providence. Prof. Abbott is at Redlands College, Redlands, Calif.

Clarence H. Philbrick was elected chairman of the Friends of the Library of Brown University at the annual meeting held in May.

Edward T. Brackett continues as Treasurer and board member of the 50-year-old Chinese Mission of New England.

Alexander Gardiner was plagued with a foot infection at Commencement time which knocked him out of the reunion. Larry sent on his ticket for the Victory Dinner for the use of an ex-GI.

Watson F. Buhler is now connected with the Milton Weinberg Advertising Co., Los Angeles, and lives at 617 South Vermont Ave. Formerly a resident of Bloomfield, N. J., Watson should find that the Southern California climate will bring back his tennis game to what it used to be 32 years ago.

Prof. Sharon Brown is chairman of the Providence committee soliciting funds on behalf of Children to Palestine, a Christian-Jewish committee for the rescue of Jewish refugee children and their rehabilitation in Palestine. Samuel H. Workman is on his committee, as well as the Very Rev. Duncan Fraser '28, Rev. Earl H. Tomlin '18, R. Franklin Weller '18, and John H. Wells '09. Prof. Benjamin C. Clough of the Faculty and Dr. L. Ralston Thomas of the Corporation are also serving.

Superior Court Judge Robert E. Quinn is a strong candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate.

John H. Greene, Jr., is County Historian and Clerk of the Superior Court of Newport, R. I.

Joseph H. Stannard, principal of Mount Pleasant High School, Providence, was recently elected president of the R. I. Secondary School Principals' Assoc.

Commodore George T. Paine, USN, Brown's senior Naval alumnus, has been awarded the Legion of Merit for his service as Production Officer of the busy Boston Navy Yard during the war. He now commands the Naval Shipyard at Terminal Island, Calif.

Maj. Edgar J. Staff, of 18 Williams Ave., Edgewood 5, R. I., is at present commanding officer of the 1st Service Command Laboratory in Jamaica Plains, Mass.

Cecil M. P. Cross continues as American Consul General in Sao Paulo, Brazil, although he was promoted to Class 1 about a year ago.

William P. Sheffield made the welcoming speech as President of the Newport Chamber of Commerce when his city was host to the R. I. Retail Association in June for its annual meeting.

Comdr. F. Lee Smith was a very disappointed man when he reached the Brown campus two days after Commencement, for he had come on from San Francisco when he did because of a misunderstanding about reunion dates. He had been with ComAir-Pac and was to report to Washington 1 July.

Dr. Guy W. Wells, who served in the Italian and African campaigns, spoke for Army veterans at a "welcome home" garden party June 5 honoring more than 400 members of the R. I. Hospital Staff who served in the armed forces during the war.

A curious omission from recently published lists of the Brown Rose Bowl football squad has been the name of Irving S. Fraser. He and Saxton, of course, were the fullbacks on the team. An error in the Liber, which left Fraser's name off the roster, has been compounded since that time, and he has not had the credit due him. (The Liber squad photo carries Fraser in the group but has the name of "Butler" under him.) Wally Snell has seen to it that the archives and other records are corrected in this regard. Fraser, who saw service with the Seabees in the Pacific, has been a civilian again since last summer and is living at 138 Benedict St., Providence.

John R. Williams, who has been managing the Detroit edition of the Pittsburgh Chronicle, is being transferred in July to head the Pacific Coast edition of the same paper. His new address is 3622 So. Arlington Ave., Los Angeles.

J. Harold Williams and Walter Adler, graduates of Hope High in 1914, took the lead in tendering a fine reception of alumni to Miss Florence Slack, who retired this year after 48 years of teaching in the school. Other committeemen and speakers were Myles Standish '20, Clarence H. Philbrick '13, W. Chesley Worthington '23, Mrs. Samuel T. Arnold, School Committeeman Francis J. Brady '16, and Gen. William C. Chase '16. Many another Brunswickian was in the throng.

James V. Bennett, Director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, was appointed by the Attorney General to conduct the investigation into the recent Alcatraz riot.

C. A. Champlin's daughter, Ann, completed her Freshman year at Pembroke in June.

Clifton I. Munroe, of 44 Glen Ave., Cranston, has been appointed chief attorney in the Providence regional office of the Veteran's Administration. He was recently discharged from the Army as Lt. Col.

William S. Spatcher is now with Consolidated Textile Co., Inc., 86 Worth St., New York 13, N. Y.

W. Chester Beard's name was on the new slate of officers voted at the annual meeting of the R. I. Retail Association as a vice-president.

David Ladd has been transferred from Philadelphia to the Powers Regulator Co. of Calif., 1808 W. Eighth St., Los Angeles 5, Calif.

Lt. Col. Russell M. Peters was one of the survivors of a spectacular plane crash near Fairfax, Calif. The Flying Fortress in which he was riding ran out of gasoline and bounced over the top of Bald Peak.

At its postponed 25th reunion this year, the class voted to present $5000 to the University with "no strings attached." This sum had been raised as the result of action taken at the 20th reunion in 1940, and the war delayed the gift, which would otherwise have come in 1945. In acknowledging the gift, President Wriston wrote Dr. Marshall N. Fulton that Brown would use the money to establish the Class of 1920 Fund to be used by the University for general purposes.

Walter Hoving, former president of Lord & Taylor, has formed the Hoving Corp., which will own and operate under their present names, well known department and specialty stores in various parts of the United States.

Raymond E. Clafin of 17 Ridge Rd., West Terrace, Danbury, Conn., is principal of the Danbury High School.

Earl W. Woodruff paid his first visit to University Hall since the reconstruction at Commencement time and, as an interior decorator, judged the work on the building with high professional regard. He is with F. G. & A. Howald Co., 34 North High St., Columbus, Ohio.

Marshall Cannell is the new vice-president and secretary of Columbia Drug Products Co., Inc., and assistant treasurer of Atlantic Drugs, Inc. His address: 247 Park Ave., New York.

Howard G. Brewer is engaged in mortgage financing with Danice E. Kennedy, 60 E. 42nd St., N. Y. C.

Maj. Gen. Royal B. Lord is assuming civilian duties as Chairman of the Board of World Wide Development Corp. and of International Vitavision Corp. His home will be at 8 Dunham Rd., Sherbrooke Park, Scarsdale, N. Y.

John J. Muccio, a Foreign Service Officer with the State Dept., is now with OMGUS, Office of Political Affairs, APO No. 742, c/o Postmaster, N. Y.

George Macready plays the sinister villain with the dagger-headed cane, and Rita Hayworth for a wife, in "Gilda," which is now playing at your neighborhood theater.

Rev. James V. Claypool will not return to Rhode Island after his service as a Navy chaplain with the rank of Captain. He will take up new work in the fall with the American Bible Association in New York. Dr. Claypool received his A.M. with the class and was awarded an honorary degree by Brown during the war.

Walter H. Hibbard, after war experiences in Government service that sent him all over the world, is now settled in Hartford. He is field representative of the Industrial Division of the Connecticut State Development Commission, with headquarters in the State Office Building.

Lt. Comdr. Harvey S. Reynolds, returned to civilian pursuits as a Providence lawyer, climbed College Hill in June to receive the Air Medal for "a series of meritorious acts while participating in aerial flight in a combat area where enemy anti-aircraft fire was expected to be effective and where enemy aircraft patrols usually occurred." Capt. Francis D. McCormick, commanding the Naval unit at Brown, acted for the Navy in making the presentation. In addition to Harvey's family, Bill McCormick and Arthur Braitsh were witnesses to represent the class.

Commissioned in 1942, Reynolds served with air combat intelligence aboard task force carriers in the Pacific fleet and took part in attacks on Marcus, Wake, Gilbert, and Kwajalein Islands, Marshall, Truk, Saipan, Tinian Islands, the Western Caroline operations, raids on Western New Guinea and Central Caroline, and Japan. He figured in the book "Carrier Warfare" and the film "Fighting Lady."

Don Rubel's daughter will be a member of the September class at Pembroke. Sons of Alden Hays and Bill Munroe are on their way to Brown.

Kenneth P. Sheldon is still in Government service in Washington. Last winter he completed a trip abroad investigating American post-war trade prospects, on which he started two weeks after VJ Day. His mission took him to London, Paris, Italy, Algiers, Tunisia, Morocco, Tangier, and French West Africa as far as the Ivory Coast.

Robert B. Cruise visited with classmates during Commencement, coming on from Beaumont, Tex., where he is an active citizen. He is a past president of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers and was national director of the National Society of Professional Engineers in 1944 and 1945. His work in the Boy Scout movement brought him the Silver Beaver award, which his father had also won in New London.

Prof. Harry Shulman of Yale Law School was the subject of a long feature article in a recent Providence Sunday Journal. He is considered one of the country's "top trouble-shooters in the troubled field of labor-management relations."

Bill Walsh is in the Industrial Engineering Dept. of U. S. Rubber Co., in Providence. His stepson, at present in the Navy, is headed for Brown this fall, Bill hopes.

W. B. McCormick's son, William Merrill McCormick, was graduated from Moses Brown School at the recent Commencement.

Mike Gulian, out of the service, has returned to the Equitable Life Assurance Society, 82 Devonshire St., Boston, Mass.

1924

It's fine to see Joe Nutter's column "Sports Front" back in the Providence Evening Bulletin after his long leave of absence. He takes up with his old specialties, track, tennis and the college field, commanding major interest.

Philip Lukin was elected a national vice-president of the Unitarian Laymen's League at the annual May meeting in Boston. Chancellor Henry D. Sharpe '94 is another vice-president.

H. Allen Grimwood is the president of the Bristol-Craft Corp. in Bristol, R. I., which has been advertising a trim 33-foot custom-built cruiser. The company, a successor to Wardwell's Boat Yard, employs some of the craftsmen who formerly worked with Hershelf.

Vernon A. Libby's plans to come to Brown for Commencement were disrupted when his New England trip was cut short. He was able to stay in Providence only a

THE BLAIREST ROMAN OF THEM ALL

Blair Academy's New Headmaster

► BENJAMIN D. ROMAN '25 is the new headmaster of Blair Academy, in Blairstown, N. J., from which many a graduate has come to Brown. He succeeded Dr. Charles H. Breed July 1 upon the latter's designation as headmaster emeritus.

Mr. Roman goes to Blair after two years as instructor of Latin, coach, and dormitory master at Phillips Exeter Academy. The news was greeted with particular interest at Blair's rival, Peddie School, where Dr. Wilbour E. Saunders '16 is headmaster, for Mr. Roman began his teaching career as Latin instructor there upon his graduation from Brown. From 1928 to 1942 he taught Latin, served as house master and student counselor at Brookline High in Massachusetts, also studying law at Suffolk Law School and being admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in 1934. He also took graduate work in education at Boston University and Harvard. He went to Exeter after two years as principal of the Runkle Elementary School in Brookline.

In announcing their appointment, the Trustees of Blair declared the school "fortunate in securing as headmaster a man about whom students and fellow masters speak with a whole-hearted enthusiasm."

couple of hours. He and his brother operate Libby's Department Store at 387 Main St., and Libby Home Appliances at 9532 Washington Blvd., both in Culver City, Cal.

Jack Lubrano of the William A. Briggs Jr. High School in Cranston was one of the committee which arranged the spectacularly successful Rhode Island Schools' Science Fair in April.

Walter Olsen brought his wife and 14-year-old daughter north in June for a vacation visit to his in-laws and the campus. After duty at the U. S. Naval Ordnance Plant in Macon, Ga., during the war, he is now personnel director and chief industrial engineer for the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills and lives at 129 Mountain View Ave., Danville, Va.

Quentin Reynolds contributes a pungent introduction to Albert C. Hicks' "Blood in the Streets," an indictment of the Trujillo regime in the Dominican Republic.

Capt. Robert Mazet, Jr., MC, USNR, was author with Capt. O. B. Morrison, Jr., of a fine paper in The Military Surgeon for March which described in detail the "Functions of Medical Units in Amphibious Operations." "The very rapid wartime expansion of the Marine Medical facilities has necessitated the assignment to Marine units of Medical personnel who are not familiar with the organization or with the medical and surgical problems of land warfare." Dr. Mazet took part in two operations as Asst. Corps Surgeon and Commanding Officer of a Corps Medical Battalion. We've also been privileged to read his personal narrative of the Okinawa "incident," a splendid reportorial job. Dr. Mazet is now Chief of the Orthopaedic Service at the Veterans' Hospital in Los Angeles, having completed his Navy duty with a tour at Chelsea Hospital.

Dr. Robert A. Goodell, recently placed on inactive duty as Comdr., has resumed his position as assistant medical director of Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co., Hartford.

Edward W. Morris of 434 Hartford Ave., Providence, is associated with Lt. Gov. Sweeney and former State Senator Roche in the practice of law at 306 Old Colony Bank Bldg., Providence.

Dr. A. R. Woodburne, until recently Col. in the Medical Corps, is in the practice of dermatology at 424 Metropolitan Bldg., Denver 2, Col. His home address is 1515 E. 7th Ave., Denver 3, Col.

Shurtleff's Rewarding Dog

► BERTRAND SHURTLEFF '22 continues in "Awol Musters Out" the adventures of one of his favorite and most successful characters. The Army dog was the hero of an earlier Shurtleff book, "Awol: K-9 Commando," who after leaving the Army enters the wild frontier of Australia's Northern Territory with his master. One high moment is when a primitive tribe adopts him as their god. "Shore Leash" is another Shurtleff book which points up the work of the K-9 Corps (Chicago Tribune comment: "Dramatic, action-packed, handled with skill.") ◀

The Marines Told It to Hough

► ► THE OVER-ALL STORY of the Marine Corps in the Pacific War has been written by Maj. Frank O. Hough '24 of the Corps' Division of Public Information and will be published by J. B. Lippincott early in 1947. This monumental job is designed for popular consumption and, though only a semi-official project is based on official sources.

Hough, whose literary reputation is founded in his novels of the Revolutionary period, was the youngest Marine sergeant in the first World War and spent a year and a half overseas in this one with the First Marine Division. "Not unqualified to write about the war in the Pacific," said our informant in a vein of understatement.

On July 14 Hough was to return to civilian life and planned to settle in Florida, there to resume his historical novels. One was reported well in hand when he dropped everything four years ago to get into the war in an active capacity. Incidentally, it was a publisher's deadline for his newest book which prevented him from coming from Washington for Class Day and Commencement.

York at its meeting June 17. Another officer is Steve Hall '28.

Maj. John J. Bauer, now with the Adjutant General's Department in Japan, has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for "meritorious achievement" in connection with military operations in the Pacific Area. He has been director of distribution of all communications at General Headquarters of the U. S. Armed Forces of that area, Manila, and also for General Headquarters for the Allied Powers, Tokyo, upon their consolidation. He "rendered outstanding services in connection with the receipt, coordination, routing, and dispatch of a great volume of correspondence received from the War Department, Navy, subordinate commands, and other sources as well as those originated by GHQ." One of the first reserve officers to be called from Providence, he was a Field Artillery battery commander in the 2nd and 3rd Armored Divisions before becoming Adjutant General of the 10th and 20th Armored Divisions. He is a graduate of the Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth and has also had duty in the War Department in Washington.

Dr. John Langdon is Executive Director of the R. I. Committee of the Child Health Survey.

C. P. Ives, writer for the Baltimore Sun, recently wrote an article, "A Court Divided," which gave his interpretation of the philosophical background of the Jackson-Black quarrel. The article has been reprinted by papers all over the country.

Reginald S. Paulson of 216 No. Franklin Turnpike, Ho-Ho-Kus, N. J., is a supervisor of corporate statistics for Western Electric Co., 125 Broadway, N. Y. C.

J. Wilford Connolly of 25 Chittenden Ave., New York 33, is with the Griscom-Russell Co., 285 Madison Ave., N. Y. C.

H. N. Marks lives at 37 Marion St., Nyack, N. Y.

Jacob S. Temkin is the new chairman of the Providence Council of Social Agencies, elected at the annual meeting in June.

Arthur S. Hassell is now associated with the Col. Col. Export Corp. and expects soon to be assigned to a foreign post. "This time my family will go with me," he told us. Incidentally, we learn that Arthur has received the Bronze Star for "meritorious achievement" as a Colonel in the ETO.

Fred Sciotti, power distribution engineer in the Engineering Dept., Narragansett Electric Co., Providence, has received the Bronze Star for "meritorious service in connection with military operations against the enemy from June, 1944 to May, 1945 in France, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Germany." He was called to active duty Nov. 7, 1941, with initial duty at the Signal Corps School, Ft. Monmouth; later assigned to the 79th Infantry Division on its activation at Camp Pickett, Va., in May, 1942 as commanding officer of the 79th Signal Company. He was appointed the Division's Signal Officer after graduation from the Command and General Staff School at Ft. Leavenworth in April, 1943, and went overseas to the ETO a year later. The 79th arrived on the Normandy Beachhead on D-plus-6 and participated in the capture of Cherbourg, the battles of Normandy, France, and the Rhineland. Sciotti was promoted to Lt. Col. while in France in October, 1944. His home address: 765 Park Ave., Cranston 10, R. I.

James Barry, with the public accounting firm of Arthur Andersen & Co. since 1943, on May 1 joined the accounting staff of one of his firm's clients, the American Sugar Refining Co., in their New York office at 120 Wall St.

Dr. Lawton Parker Greenman Peckham has been named associate professor of French in the Graduate School of Columbia University.

Howard M. Smith lives at 147 High St., No. Berwick, Maine with his wife, his son, Howard age 11, and his daughter, Susanne age nine. He is superintendent in charge of manufacturing for Goodall-Sanford Inc., Sanford, Maine.

J. Arnold Yates of 20 Yale St., Hartford, is a principal in the Insurance Dept. of the State of Connecticut.

Herb Clark has been serving as head master of Wayland (Mass.) High School for the past year and a half while he reorganized the school. He is now a lecturer on education at the Graduate School of Education, Harvard University.

Willoughby M. Cady's new address is 466 Woodward Blvd., Pasadena 8, Calif. After hush-hush work in the M.I.T. radar project, he is now a physicist for the Navy.

Chaplain (Major) Clifford Chadwick was awarded an Army Commendation Ribbon for his exceptionally fine work in organizing and conducting the chaplains' corps at Camp Edwards.

Norman Shaw's permanent address is Oakwood Manor, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Russell C. Wonderlic, manager of the Baltimore branch of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, was so thoughtful as to send us the column by Charlie Ives '25, to which we refer elsewhere in this issue. "Ives," said Wonderlic, "is probably so modest that he wouldn't ever think of telling anyone up at the University about it."

Hubbell Robinson, Jr., was the author of a good article on "The Vitamin Girls" which appeared in Esquire for May, dealing largely with Betty Hutton. Robinson is vice-president of the American Broadcasting Company in charge of programs and productions and knows whereof he writes.

Dr. Francis H. Chafee was the principal speaker at the commencement exercises of the Gordon School in Providence this year. Mary D. Chafee was a member of the graduating class.

John G. Getz, Jr., is a new vice-president of E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc., New York investment bankers. During the war he was with the War Department Price Adjustment Board, eventually as Colonel in the Pentagon. Previously he had been for many years an associate of Charles S. Mott, Michigan capitalist, and served as an officer and director of the United States Guard Corporation, Celotex Corporation, St. Louis County Water Company, and other firms. The New York papers on June 18 carried a good picture of Jack.

Side by side with the above announcement in the Herald Tribune was an item about the election of officers of the Harvard Business Club of New York. Stephen I. Hall of Caldwell Clements, Inc., was named secretary. Hall, merchandising editor of radio and television retelling with Caldwell Clements, Inc., lives at 1430 Parkchester Road, New York 62, N. Y.

The Boston Herald sports page carried this squib recently after a day when the Boston Red Sox had no scheduled game: "Ted Williams, Dizzy Trout, and Mace Brown went fishing down East Douglas way as guests of Win Schuster, the mill man who is a prominent Republican and great patron of baseball, as was his father."

G. E. Spofford is now with the Union Wadding Co., P. O. Box 909, Pawtucket.

H. Charles Kwasha is consulting actuary and head of his own firm at 50 Broad St., New York 4.

Fred M. Knight, of 20 Rose Ave., Marblehead, Mass., is executive vice-president of Smith Davis & Co., Newspaper Financing, in Cleveland.

Dr. Reginald A. Allen, of the service, has resumed his practice of pediatrics at 223 Thayer St., Providence.

After 16 years with Crucible Steel as Division Superintendent in Harrison, N. J., W. A. McKeen resigned last winter and is now Quality Manager for Fifth Sterling Steel and Carbide Co. in McKeesport, Pa. He is building a new home in St. Clair's township and expects to tie in it by Aug. 1 with his family, which includes six-year-old Joan and Deborah, who is nearly two.

Bill Gerry had one of his stories selected for Martha Foley's compilation of "The Best American Short Stories 1945." A biographical sketch of Bill accompanied it. The story originally appeared in the Yale Review. Col. G. A. Taylor '01 spotted this item for us.

Joseph C. O'Connell, Jr., founder and owner of 95% of the stock of Joseph C. O'Connell Co., Inc., has moved it to Providence from Taunton. His business is the outgrowth of wool combing machinery which he developed. He is using 20,000 feet of floor space at 85 Gano St., with employment of 100 workers as the current goal. William C. Waring, Jr., '25 is vice-president of the company.

At Operation Crossroads

► THERE WILL BE no Brown Club of Bikini, for the alumni were not long in residence in that neighborhood, but they won't forget the place in a hurry. The voice of W. W. Chaplin '18 brought the description of the first momentous bomb test as NBC commentator on the scene. Dr. Howard L. Andrews '27 was an observer as senior physicist from the National Health Center in Bethesda, Md. He studied the effect of radiation on human tissues. Capt. Robert R. Clifford '40 was senior navigator of the 393rd Bombardment Squadron of Task Group 1.5, which was charged with dropping the atomic bomb on the target fleet, and was navigator of one of the blast gauge crews of Operation Crossroads. CPO Lester Hoblin '43, USNR, was also at Bikini, according to his father. ◀

Capt. Henry C. Adams '43, previously on duty in Washington with the Navy as Army Chemical Officer on the staff of Joint Task Force One, flew to Hawaii and joined the fleet for the tests. ◀

Allen L. Atwood writes that he has sold his business and is at present on vacation in Florida. His home is at 432 Oak Road, Janesville, Wis.

Prescott K. Bearce, of 421 Wapping Road, Kingston, Mass., is president of C. Drew & Co., Kingston.

Rev. W. Stanley Jones is pastor of the First Baptist Church, Box 375, Green River, Wyo.

John B. Tanger, a sales representative of Armstrong Cork Co., 286 Congress St., Boston, lives in Wayland, Mass.

David Aldrich is a partner in the newly organized firm of Creer, Kent, Mathers, Cruise & Aldrich, Architects and Engineers.

1930

Bob Howard continues to be in the press with all his efforts to make Providence more of an air center than at the present time. United Airlines are now endeavoring to make a move that will increase the traffic for Providence and Eastern Airlines and Northeast Airlines are both coming into the City which will increase further the traffic possibilities.

H. Adrian Smith, the jolly jokester, is now out of the Army and is back with Paye and Baker Mfg. Co. of North Attleboro. He is living at 103 Medway St., Apartment 6, Providence 6.

Your adroit New York attorney, J. Gordon Baxter, is also out of the service and his present home address is Glen Royal, Averill Park, New York.

I had the sad news this past month of the death of Dan Polsby. He died May 15, 1946 at the Deaconess Hospital here in Boston. As yet I have not been able to learn the details, but we know from comments at the Reunion that he has been taken sick very suddenly and passed away with little warning of the seriousness of his illness.

Phil Knauer has been made a contract officer in the Veterans Administration in Providence.

The Sixteenth Reunion was not particularly well attended because the notices got out late, but the setting at the Mayflower Hotel at Manomet was delightful and the good companionship of the Class of 1931 was much appreciated by all who attended.

Golf on the Plymouth Country Club gave everybody a chance to emulate the mountain goat.

Lt. George D. Gilbert is looking forward to September so he can "take off that shiny blue uniform." He will complete his present assignment in Boston then—surplus property disposal at the Material Redistribution and Disposal Office, Building 21, USN Dry Dock, Boston 10.

HAL CARVER

Dr. Eddie Crane went back to his old position in the infeld one day this spring when the Classical High School baseball team of 1926 undertook to play the school's 1946 nine. The oldtimers did reasonably well, too, losing 14-10.

After 4½ years in the Army, two of them as assistant executive officer of the famous show, "This is the Army," Lt. Willard E. Josephy is back in California, associated with Artists, Ltd., 420 North Camden Drive, Beverly Hills. He was one of three officers attached to the unit of 200 men in the Army show who encircled the world, performing at practically every station in England, North Africa, Egypt, Italy, and then on to the East. Traveling north to Teheran, they found it a mere 150 in the sun at noon. Bombay, Australia, Dutch New Guinea were next, and then they went throughout the Pacific area, quartered in a small Dutch warship (air-conditioned). Moving in soon after enemy withdrawals, they played two films, Manila, and other captured points before returning to Hawaii and then to California for discharge. His long experience in Hollywood especially fitted him for his duties as executive officer, finance and personnel officer, with responsibility for housing, feeding, and shipping and not excusing.

William G. Schofield's "The Cat in the Convey" has been published by Macrae-Smith, his second novel and liked by reviewers for its lively tale of murder and espionage. The atmosphere is drawn from his own experience as an armed guard officer on convoy merchants, with plenty of action against subs, E-boats, and air attack. A Navy Lieutenant and his fiancée, a newspaper woman, fight the mystery of the murder of a member of his gun crew.

Charles B. Brown of 11 North Drive, Plandome, L. I., is eastern representative for the Ingersoll Steel Division of Borg-Warner Corp.

The Vote Turned Out

► A YEAR AGO only 11 persons attended the annual school meeting of the town of Chappaqua, N. Y.; this year more than 600 turned out. And 545 of them voted for Stanley B. Post '25 as a member of the new board in an election which the New Castle Tribune interpreted as a defeat of a radical element. "Pack Up, Boys, and Go Home," said an editorial headline. Post, interviewed by a columnist at home ("one of the oldest houses in New Castle, having been built in 1729"), said he had become interested in the School Board because, before long, Mary would be going to school.

Post is assistant vice-president of J. Henry Schroder Banking Corporation in New York and served as Captain with the New York Guard 17th Regiment during the war. ◀

Bruce M. Docherty has been released from active duty in the Army and has become associated with the firm of Hinckley, Allen, Tillinghast & Wheeler, Industrial Trust Bldg., Providence.

Bernie Buonanno has been granted leave from the Providence School Dept. to take a position as general manager of the Atlantic Chemical Co. in Centredale, R. I.

Richard H. Howland will be acting head of the Dept. of Archaeology and Art at the Johns Hopkins University beginning in September. He received his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins in February.

Aaron L. Bilgore is a partner in publishing the trade paper, Florida Fruit Digest in Jacksonville, Fla.

Joe Micucci is now Eastern District Manager for Culligan Zeolite Co., 136 Liberty St., New York 6, N. Y.

Maj. Edward B. Williams, USAAF, has been assigned as base adjutant and personnel officer at Waller Field, Trinidad, where his wife and their three-year-old son were to join him in June.

1932

Miss Carolyn J. Pyper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon F. Pyper of Mount Hermon School, was married June 10 to Lt. Norman K. Buker, USAAF, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harold W. Buker of New London, N. H. She is Pembroke '46.

Dr. Frederic W. Ripley, Jr., resumed practice at 167 Angell St., Providence, in June, specializing in Obstetrics and Gynecology, and moved into the house he bought through "Rip" Hurley at 187 Don Ave., Rumford. While on Saipan Ripley encountered Lt. Comdr. John Wilson of Charleston, W. Va., supply officer for the military government organization ("he did a wonderful job out there," Fred says). By the way, does anyone have a good address for Wilson? Mail has been returned from 628 Columbia Blvd., Charleston.

Stuart C. Waite is an attorney at 31 Elm St., Springfield, Mass.

Ben Murphy, out of the Navy, is a field analyst with H. C. Wainwright & Co., 30 Pine St., N. Y. C. Ben lives at 414 E 52nd St., N. Y. C.

Letters in the Mailbox

SIR:

Hail to Brown as a college of liberal arts! The new plan of curriculum integration evokes comment. The aim is to develop intelligence, to discipline the intellect, the mathematical, physical, biological function of the brain which gives competence in the utilization of scientific knowledge; and to cultivate the intuitive, native (dream-power) function of the brain, which gives direct vision of spiritual values in the teen-life of the world.

A liberal education dedicated thus to the training of the whole mind would produce persons equipped to discriminate between the relevant and irrelevant in the problems to be resolved in their fields of action.

Having attained this power of a creative mind from the integration of the intellectual and intuitive functions of the brain, one may agree with A. N. Whitehead, when he states: "Your learning is useless to you till you have lost your text books, burnt your lecture notes and forgotten the minutiae which you learnt by heart for the examination."

SIR:

I enjoy the pages of the new Monthly and am deeply interested in the new plans for the University. I think we have a great leader, and the prospects for the future of Brown are greater than ever.

SIR:

I enjoy the magazine so much that I can hardly believe that I've been out of school for seven years. As old familiar names come to memory once again, I feel that summer vacation is here, and I'm once again to return in the fall.

WALTER H. VAN COTT '39
Brooklyn, N. Y.

SIR:

I'd like to express my appreciation for my copies of the Alumni Monthly, the staff of which deserves the highest praise for an excellent magazine. I think the new circulation plan will go a long way in keeping members of all the classes in closer touch with one another, and in keeping alumni interest alive to the doings on "the Hill."

I'd also like to join the other alumni in congratulating the Faculty on their work in shaping the New Curriculum. In an educational world concentrating increasingly on vocational training, it is refreshing to hear of an institution's renewing emphasis on the liberal arts, and particularly so to read that Brown has taken the lead, as usual.

Incidentally, I now have a more or less permanent service address to which you can mail the magazine. Though now at the "Trade School," I consider myself no less a Brown man.

KIRBY J. SMITH '47
Midshipman USN, Annapolis.

When alumni vote on Alumni Trustee nominations, a list of present incumbents would help one to vote for balance on the Corporation in respect to: 1—geographical distribution; 2—the distribution in respect to the approximate ages of the members of the various bodies.

SIR:

Why are the alumni given no choice in voting for certain regional officers and must vote for the single candidate listed?

THIRTY-TWO,
Chicago.

(Regional nominations are made by the Brown Clubs in the various Regions of the Associated Alumni. In the case of three Regions this year, only one candidate was nominated by the clubs. Although the Executive Committee has the option, under the by-laws, of adding another candidate, it chose by unanimous vote to list one name, particularly since all were fine choices. The intention of by-laws and practice is to leave the Regions as autonomous as possible in choosing their officers.—Ed.)

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Benjamin of New York were among the parents who attended the War Memorial and Recognition Service in Sayles Hall on Commencement Day. It was at that time that we learned how Alfred H. Benjamin, Jr., met his death. He was a C.I.C. Special Intelligence Officer under General Mark Clark in the early days of the North African occupation. He was a bodyguard of Darlan at the time the latter was shot and so was a marked man himself. He knew the risks he took, and his services have been recognized with posthumous decorations and citations. Mr. Benjamin is the president of the Anglo-American Trading Corporation and has received word this summer that King George VI has awarded him His Majesty's Medal for Service in the Cause of Freedom. The Prime Minister of Australia has also written to thank Mr. Benjamin for hospitality and courtesy extended to Australian service men during the war.

Ross A. de Matteo is back at 137 Canton St., Providence. During the latter part of his Naval service he was commanding officer of the base at Samar, at which terminal he encountered many a Brunonian. Bud Gifford was across the bay in the Port Director's office, he reports.

Lt. Nelson B. Record has completed a 12 weeks' course in management and industrial engineering at the Naval Air Station at Alameda, Calif., following sea duty and is now stationed at the Naval Air Base, Jacksonville, Fla.

Irving S. Canner, out of the Army, is now advertising manager for the Hub Photo Supply Co. and the Hub Cycle and Radio Co., 596 Commonwealth Ave., Boston 15, Mass.

Weldon L. Seamount is in charge of the emulsion flavors department of the Blue Seal Extract Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Norman Dodge, former Captain in the Army, is now with the Veterans' Counselling Service at Bucknell University. He is doing the same type of counselling that he did in the Army.

Dick Erstein has been released to inactive duty and is back as a producer in the Educational Division of Columbia Broadcasting System.

Walter S. Bopp has moved to 152 Paris Ave., Audubon, N. J., and now works for R. C. A., Victor Division, Camden.

New addresses: Gordon MacLaren, 26 Valley Road, Lawrence Park, Bronxville, N. Y.; Lee Labonne, 60 Gallatin St., Providence, R. I.

Lt. Comdr. C. B. Wright, Jr., in peace time a Minneapolis insurance man, died June 25, 1946, at Key West, Fla., a victim of polio after a very short illness. His widow, an expectant mother, had contracted the disease June 15. Two children survive, Ben and Susan, as well as his mother. Funeral services were in Minneapolis.

Mr. Wright was a member of the Naval Aviation Selection Board at Wold Chamberlain Field early in the war, was commissioned as Ensign in February, 1942, as a Lt. (jg) he was an Air Combat Information Officer aboard the Natoma Bay in 1944. At Brown he won his letter in varsity hockey and numerals in hockey and baseball. His fraternity was Phi Gamma Delta. He was married Sept. 16, 1936 to Mary Grace Cotton of Chicago.

White House Aide

► Lt. (jg) GEORGE W. WILLIAMS '42 is on duty at the White House, "the most junior officer ever to hold assignment there as naval aide." He had previously been on the staff of Admiral Miller, director of public information for the Navy. As one of the five Naval aides at the White House, Lt. Williams will assist the President and Mrs. Truman at receptions and other social functions, among other duties. After duty aboard a sub-chaser and a destroyer, he was assigned to the staff of the admiral commanding cruisers and destroyers in the Pacific Fleet. He returned to the United States last February for duty on Admiral Nimitz's staff in Washington.

Apops of Ben Wright's death, Dick Shaw writes from Minneapolis that he had seen Ben in Pearl Harbor last September. At that time he was serving on a carrier which had just returned from the final bombardment of Japan and was hoping to get back to the States and his family as soon as possible. Ben had wanted to form a Brown Club in Minneapolis before the war, but the plan was interrupted. "Even though he attended Brown only two years, he was a very loyal alumnus."

Stephen B. Nicholson, Jr., and his partner, Charles W. Freeman, have opened "The Home Center" for the sale and purchase of residential property, with quarters at 33 1/2 the Arcade, Providence. Lt. (jg) Gordon E. Cadwgan, USNR, again a civilian, has rejoined the organization of G. H. Walker & Co., investment bankers, in the Providence office at 840 Hospital Trust Bldg.

Townsend Miller wanted very much to attend the reunion but his new business (Townsend Miller Associates, 17 East 42nd St., New York 17) and his impending marriage interfered. Miss Dorothy Bayer of New York was the bride on June 22.

John Desmond Glover, Assistant Professor of Business Administration at the Harvard Graduate School was actively engaged, with four colleagues, in developing courses of instruction for the Army Air Forces and in doing consulting work for the AAF. He and various subsidiary commands during the war. During the closing phase, he was a member of the Secretariat of the U. S. Strategic Bombing Survey in Europe and Washington. The group received commendations from Maj. Gen. Meyers, Air Technical Service Command; Maj. Gen. Giles, Chief of Air Staff; Lt. Gen. Eaker, commanding 8th Air Force; Asst. Secretary of War Lovett, and the Commanding General of the AAF, H. H. Arnold. A personal commendation of Prof. Glover from General Arnold spoke of his field trips, consultation, and inspiring instruction which made the Statistical Control System "the very important factor it was in the winning of the air war."

A Pioneer at the Barnes

► DR. RODERICK M. CHISHOLM '38 has a pioneering job to do. For the first time in any college, as the Philadelphia Inquirer put it, a course dealing with the objective study of the relationship of art and philosophy will be introduced next fall at the University of Pennsylvania through cooperation of the Barnes Foundation and university officials. Dr. Chisholm will be the first holder of the professorship for an initial trial period of three years. The course will be held in gallery of the Barnes Foundation in Merion, where its famed collection of paintings from early time to the modern period are displayed, and the art objects will be used to illustrate the continuity of traditions throughout the ages.

Dr. Chisholm served as a military psychologist and instructor in the Army until February. Since then he has been studying with Dr. John Dewey, who has praised the educational work of the Barnes Foundation.

THE AIR MEDAL "for a series of meritorious acts" was presented on the campus by Capt. Francis D. McCorkle, commanding officer of the Brown Naval Unit. . . .

The 1946 Alumni Meeting ◀ ◀

▶ "WE GATHER HERE today with mixed feelings. We are sad because war has taken so large a toll from our ranks, but we rejoice because the war's end allows so many loyal sons of Brown to gather for the first time in five years to pay homage to our Alma Mater. True, the world scene, not to mention the domestic situation, leaves much to be desired but we must not lose sight of all that has been accomplished since our last Commencement when the war in the Pacific was going through one of its most destructive phases. There is much for which to be profoundly grateful."

Col. McLeod's compliment to President Wriston, in introducing the latter, declared that alumni support was a "compelling obligation" so that the great project ahead should be accomplished in satisfactory and timely fashion. He said Brown and the alumni were fortunate that their leader was one "endowed to an unusual degree with vision, a lively imagination, and with unlimited energy, both physical and intellectual—by one who happily was not easily discouraged." Brown's plans for more effective education must and will come to fruition, the chairman declared.

▶ PRINCIPAL SPEAKER at the Alumni Meeting was Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, President of the Naval War College, who gave a dispassionate review of the Naval war in the Pacific and maintained the thesis that America must continue the world's mightiest military power at sea, atomic bombs notwithstanding. Sea power, he said, can keep our enemies on the far sides of our two oceans, and we would thus be as secure as any country on earth. "Until the United Nations has developed a far greater harmony among the nations of the world than exists today, and a far greater control of international affairs, the United States must not give up the position it won with such effort and sacrifice," he said. Of particular interest was his exposition of the development of carrier warfare, mobile service, submarine and amphibious war techniques. He also believed that the war with Japan would still be going on, had our submarines not performed so magnificently.

Governor John O. Pastore brought the State's greetings, expressing appreciation of the long bond of friendly co-operation between Rhode Island and the University. He said the peace for which the sacrifice of the dead had been offered was a particular responsibility for those intellectually mature. Chaplain Arthur L. Washburn gave the benediction, stressing admirably the fellowship of Brown men.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. Moses L. Crossley '09, President of the Associated Alumni after Earl M. Pearce '17 had led the singing of the National Anthem. Passage of by-law amendments, in the form originally presented and reported in this magazine, was an item on the brief business agenda. An overflow audience heard the exercises outdoors under the elms. ◀

Field. Watch for details on this first reunion venture.

Ens. Bob Messinger flew on from Oregon but missed all the Commencement fun by 24 hours. But he expects to return in the fall to finish his work, and was to be separated June 19. Among men he'd seen recently were John Lee in Portland, Ore., also on his way out; Hugh Allison, Luke De Stefano and Paul J. Mikelonis, in San Francisco.

Clint Fuller is teaching at Amherst in the biology department and living in Valentine Hall.

Harry B. McKeown, placed on inactive duty in the Naval Reserve this summer, hopes to hook on as a junior engineer with some firm, preferably in the Middle West. His home address: 70 High St., Metuchen, N. J.

Walter N. Kaufman, ETMC3, is aboard the USS Gantner after transfer from Coronado Naval Amphibious Base.

D. N. Barus, ETMC2 is in the Educator Dept., Chicago Navy Pier.

Were (Are) You an Engineer?

► SYDNEY WILMOT '09, President, and other officers of the Brown Engineering Association are compiling a roster of all Brown Engineers, with the intention of printing it in booklet form to make its information available generally but particularly to classmates and engineering friends. Questionnaires have been sent out, but men who had engineering courses at Brown (even though their degree may not have been in that division) are urged to register with Mr. Wilmot at 33 West 39th St., New York 18.

Membership in the Engineering Association is open to all former students and others interested in engineering at Brown. Dues are $1 a year for the first five years following graduation, $2 a year thereafter.

Gridiron Club Plans

► HARBINGER of the fall is found in the announcement that the Providence Gridiron Club intends to follow up last season's successes with a series of at least eight meetings in 1946, starting on Wednesday night, Oct. 2 at 6:30. Dinner precedes the program at Johnson's Hummocks Grill, Allens Ave. Season tickets at $15 include the meals, at least for the 400 charter members from last year. The mail address: P. O. Box 864, Providence.

Mr. Sprackling, former All-American football star who rose to the vice-presidency of Anaconda Wire and Cable Co. in New York in 1929, was formerly president of Tubular Woven Fabric Co. in Pawtucket. He was president of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association in 1944 and 1945 and is secretary of the Electrical Manufacturers Club and chairman of the executive committee of the National Adequate Wiring Bureau, in addition to other honors in the field. He is a governor of the Brown University Club in New York, a former member of the Brown Athletic Council, and an assistant football coach here under Robinson and McLaughry.

Dr. Arbuckle was appointed to the Board of Fellows nine years after Brown conferred an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity upon him. Mr. Hughes is senior member of the New York law firm of Hughes, Hubbard & Ewing, former solicitor general of the United States, and a leader in civic affairs. He has been at various times president of the National Probation Association, the New York County Lawyers' Association, the Wilkie Memorial Building Fund, an officer of the New York Legal Aid Society, a founder of the Honest Ballot Association, one of the principal authors of the New York City charter, and chairman of the New York City Committee on Unity, dedicated to promoting "understanding and mutual respect among all the racial groups." He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Upsilon.

Dr. Thomas, who, like Hughes, was present and took his engagement as a Fellow, was born in Burma, the son of Baptist missionaries. A chaplain in the First World War, he had pastorates in St. Louis, Brooklyn, N. Y., New York City, and Fall River before coming to Providence. He is a leader in his denomination and its national convention. He has been president of the alumni of Newton Theological Seminary, of which he is a trustee, and has been prominent in alumni work at Brown. He is the third generation of his family to earn Brown degrees and enter the ministry. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

► MR. GODDARD is the fifth of his family to serve on the University Corporation, preceded by R. H. I. Goddard, 1878, T. P. I. Goddard, 1846, William Goddard, 1846, and William G. Goddard 1817. William Goddard was Chancellor from 1888 to 1907, and Dr. William G. Goddard was Secretary of the Corporation from 1843 to 1846, as well as a member of the Faculty for the 17 years previous. The Goddard gates on George St. near Rhode Island Hall are a memorial to the Chancellor. The new Trustee is a Yale graduate in the class of 1902, is a trustee of the famous Providence firm of Brown & Ives and president of the Gilman Land Company, the Narragansett Land Company, and the Brown Land Company (named for the family and not the University). He has been associated with the Lonsdale Company as president, was formerly president of the Providence National Bank, and has served as trustee of the YWCA and Butler Hospital.

Mr. Miller has been long active in a number of public institutions in Providence, having been president of the Providence Public Library, Providence Athenaeum, and Rhode Island Historical Society. He has been a member of the Board of Management of the John Carter Brown Library for many years and is currently vice-president and member of the board of investment of the People's Savings Bank, a member of the Walpole Society and Psi Upsilon among a number of societies. He has returned to Rhode Island after duty in Navy intelligence as a Commander, USNR.

► HIS CLASSMATE, Chauncey E. Wheeler, is partner in the law firm of Hinkley, Allen, Tillinghast & Wheeler, with which (and its predecessor) he has been associated since 1912 and partner since 1917. A Harvard Law School product, he was Lecturer on Contract Law in the Brown Division of Engineering from 1918 to 1942. He was president of the R. I. Bar Association, 1934-1936, and is chairman of the State Board of Bar Examiners, as he has been since 1935. He is a former member of the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association and is now a director of the American Judicature Society. He is a director of a score of corporation and companies, most of them in New England. He is a member of the Board of Editors of this magazine, of Phi Beta Kappa, Delta Sigma Rho, and Kappa Sigma.
